The Examples Of These Devoted Leaders Have Inspired Us Towards

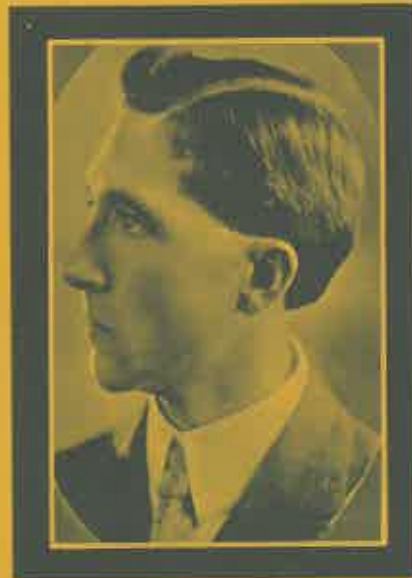

RICHARD HARRIS

RICHARD BENDALL

MRS. BERTHA FORSHEE
Mrs. Forshee was the first to work on our school paper. When the great flu epidemic struck at that time, she diligently took care of those ill with the use of fomentations. She saved everyone except her own daughter. Under the leadership of her and her husband, the school grew rapidly. They helped to build Zirkle Hall.

ELDER W. C. MOFFIT

Elder Moffit became the President of the General Conference during World War I, and he held evangelistic meetings to convert students to come to SVA because it was lacking students and money. His efforts were quite successful.

Found In Those To Whom We Dedicate Our Memories . . .

Dear Mom And Dad,

As I sit and reminisce on my life up to this time, I can't help but think how very much I owe to you.

Countless are the times you worried about me and never let me know. You prayed for me and taught me how to pray. You listened to my problems and gave me the best counsel you could. You rejoiced with me in my success and encouraged me to always do my best. You always tried to please me and to teach me to appreciate my blessings. You laughed with me and helped me to hold my head up high. You cried with me and thanked God for the joys and perplexities of parenthood. No matter what the situation, you always loved me for what I was.

Now as I climb the second realm of my education, I would like to return my love and appreciation by dedicating this book, the 1968 Shenandoah to you, my most worthy parents, for adding to this year of my life such reassurance and happiness.

The Memories Of Our Growing And Learning Are Generated

By The Sight Of Familiar Places And Objects . . .

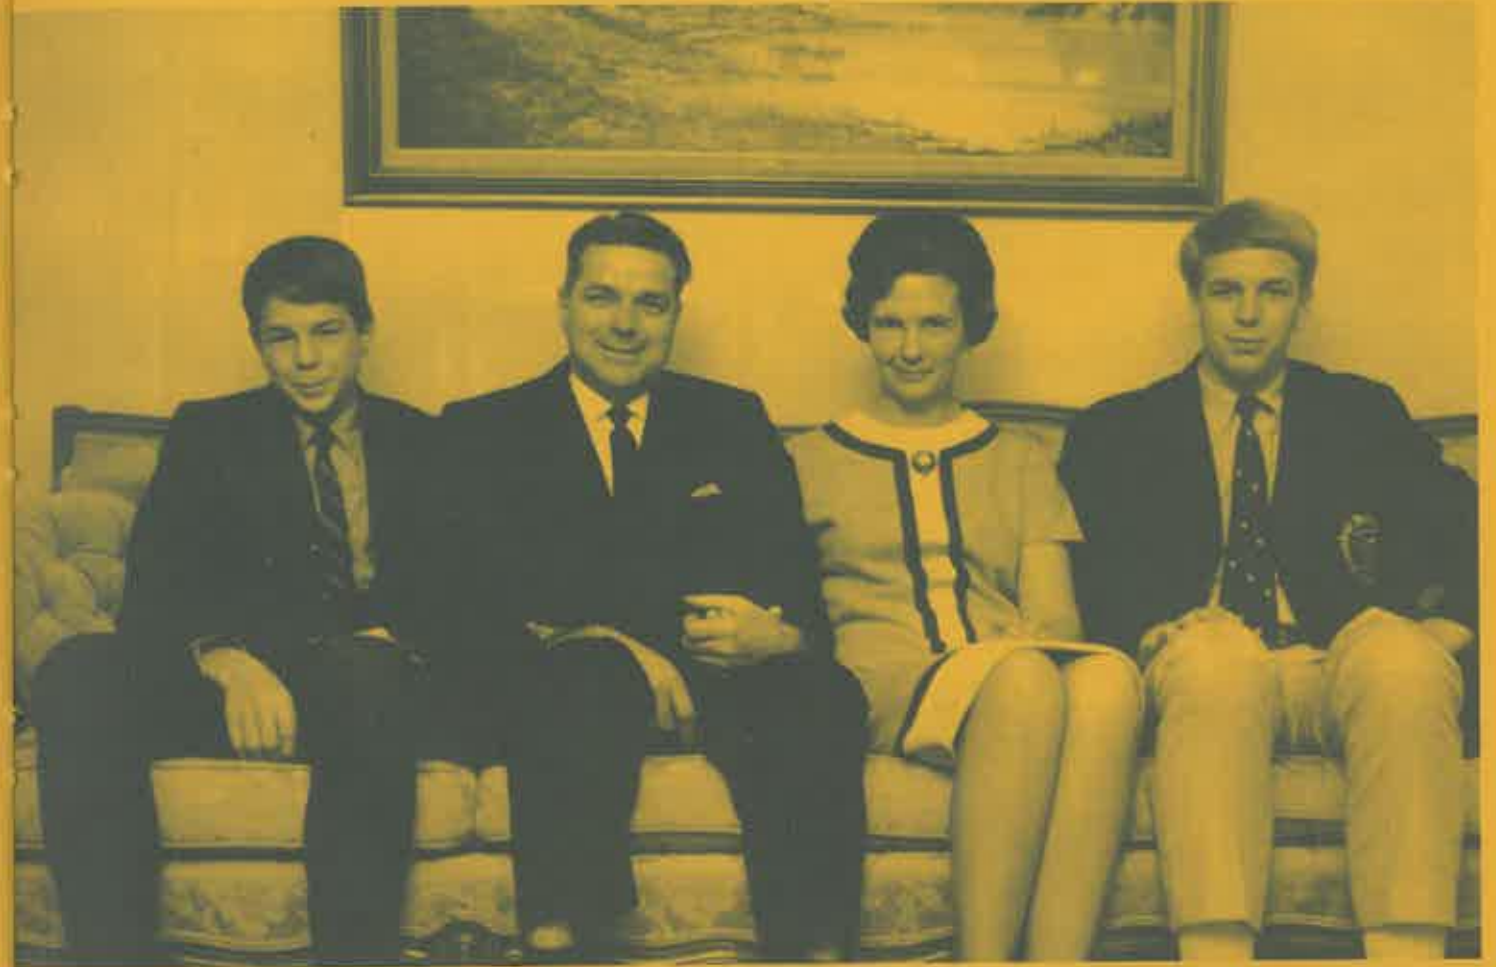

The Influence Of This Setting Has Helped

Us To Shape Our Outlook On Life

This Year Fades Into Our Memory; Its Knowledge Still Rings In

Our Ears; The Use Of This Knowledge Determines The Flow Of Our Life.

Who would stand on his head to capture a tiny water drop, silently creep behind a door, instantly throwing it open to capture a surprised expression, contact over 10 people for 1 little bit of information, stay up until the wee hours of the morning pondering over how to arrange 10 pictures on one small page, plead with nearly every person involved concerning one page and patiently wait for a month to get results, spend an hour thinking up a headline or title sentence, talk softly and smile sweetly while one manager takes 45 minutes to decide what size ad he wants, write to countless people and wait for weeks to receive money, ads, or pictures, use up one whole evening proofreading pages, and go into a fit of laughter when one more day is done?

Students Register And Meet School Family

Endless lines and patient waiting characterize registration day as student after student files by faculty advisers to arrange his schedule and begin, some for the first and some for the last time, a year at Shenandoah. There are orientation and I.Q. tests to take, work superintendents to meet and jobs to do, not to mention getting unpacked and settled in the dorm.

There are many strange but friendly faces everywhere, and as the students and faculty introduce themselves at the annual handshake, minds are strained to associate the right name with the right smiling face. Students relax and the tensions of registration and getting situated wear away. It is a good beginning for a good year.

Talent Program Replaces Rained Out Quarry Outing

The first Saturday night program of the year was a different and exciting one. It gave new and old students alike a chance to display their various talents. There were very realistic song pantomines, several vocal numbers with guitar accompaniment, humorous readings, skits, instrumental numbers, and for all those who could not be on the program, there was group singing. For the Grand Finale, students gathered outside to watch a dazzling display of fireworks.

Wacs War With G.I.s In Sub Campaign

The jeep rolled down the center aisle, stopped in front of the gym auditorium, and as cheers broke forth the leaders of the 1967 SHEN-VAL-LORE Sub Campaign stepped from the jeep. The commanders of the WACs and GIs, Generals Renée Lawrence and Bob Necsary and their assistants, Colonels Wanda Lawrence and Gary Jacques, proved to be capable leaders. Humorous skits on army life aroused enthusiasm on both sides. The students solicited over 3,700 subscriptions but fell short of the 4,000 goal. The WACs topped the GIs 1,550 with 2,150 for the victory.

A Picnic Day Is . . .

Picnic day is a day of physical feats: croquet, tennis, and volleyball; baseball, basketball, and football. It is a day of screaming and cheering and shouting; a day of beans, potato salad, and lemonade; a day of lying in the sun and getting sun-burned; a day of intense activity and excitement; a whole day of being with that special someone; a day of fun -- a day of memories.

One of the best parts of any school picnic is the delicious food prepared by Mrs. Dove and her able helpers. Bonnie Runion and Mabel Loignon serve above.

Camping Is Re-Creation

Have you ever sat for hours on a pointed rock, neck craning upward, eyes glued to binoculars waiting for a bird to pass? Have you ever misjudged the distance between rocks while crossing a mountain stream and decided to wade the rest of the way? Have you ever spent freezing nights in a sleeping bag dreaming of a nice warm bed? Have you ever laughed and sung for hours around a cheery, crackling campfire? Have you ever watched in awe as a doe and her fawn leaped gracefully through the woods? Have you ever been thoroughly refreshed after a weekend in nature? These campers have!

Contest At M.V. Social

Elder Peterson: "Did I say to do that?"

London Bridges falling down.

The M.V. Social, sponsored by the Potomac Conference and directed by Elders Peterson, Bras, and Shanko, was a unique experience. It was fun and even at times hilarious as teams competed with each other by stomping on balloons, blowing paper bags, playing snatch the rag and even running with pop bottles. The evening ended with a lively march around the gymnasium.

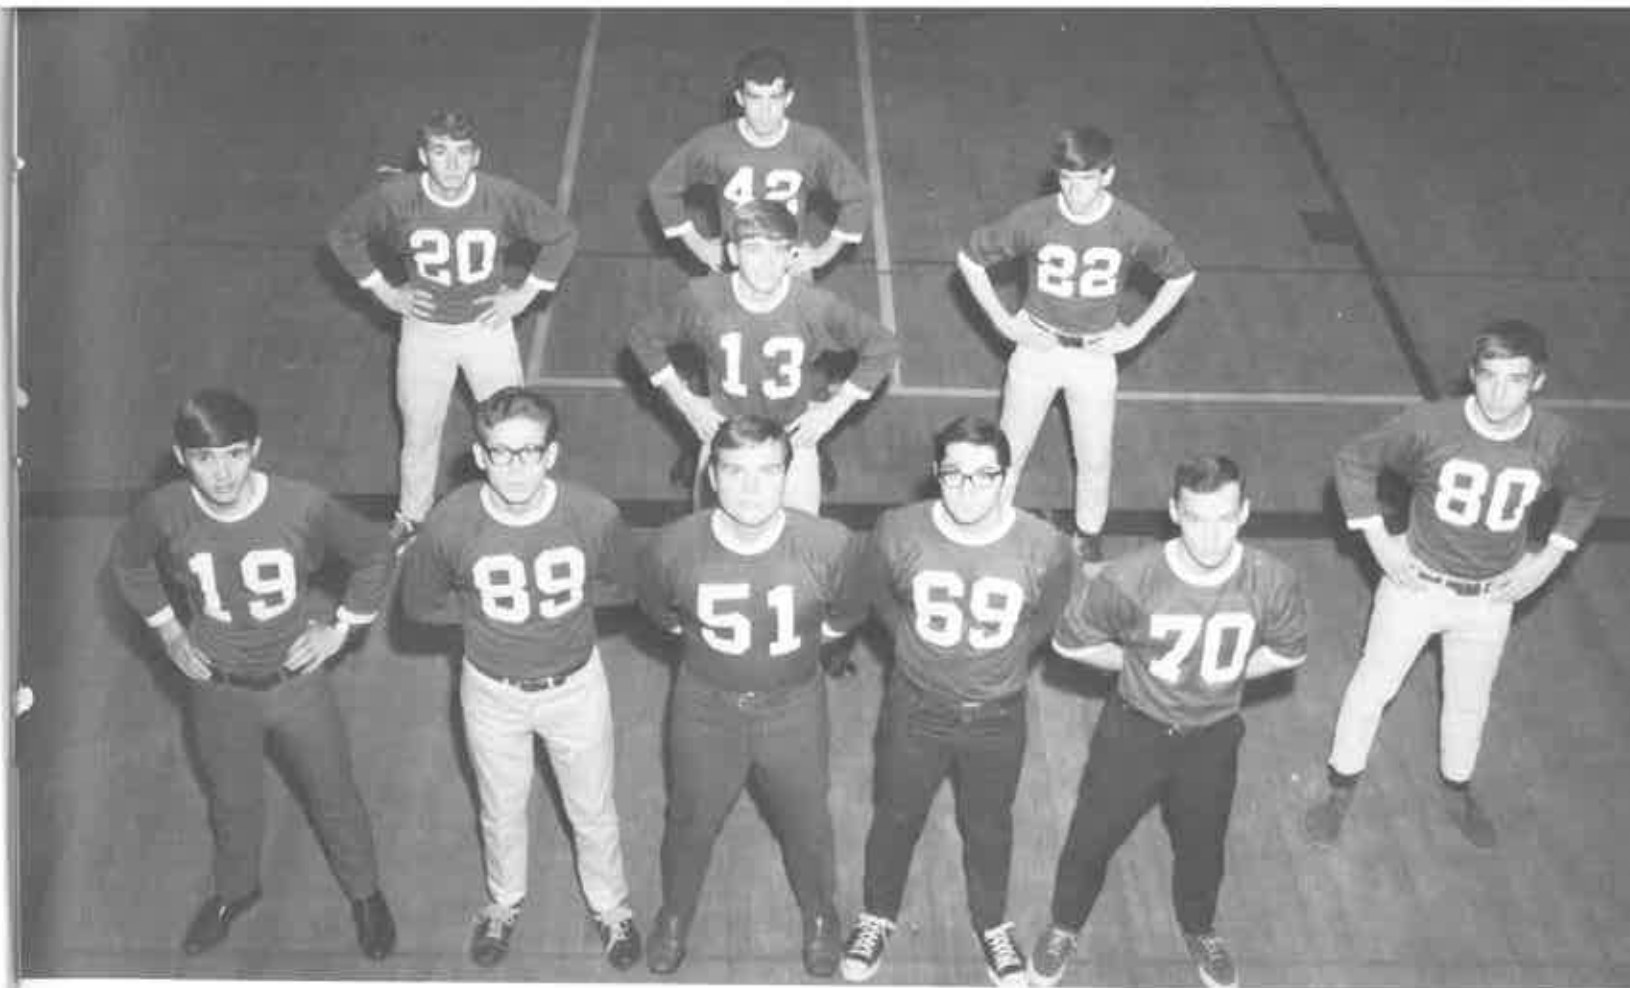

M.V. is a popping time.

Humorous Pianist Scott Delights SVA Audience

Music and laughter was the theme of the evening as Dr. Henry L. Scott entertained with such selections as "Chopin in the Citrus Belt" and "Mittens on the Keys." He did several impressions and one of the funniest followed the life of a pianist from his first recital at the age of five to his final concert at the age of 85. The light classical music mixed with comedy provided a very entertaining evening.

SVA Football Season The Best Yet

Excitement! Glory! Joy! Defeat! If only there were one word describe all of these But there isn't any one word to describe this year's football season.

After the preliminary decisions of who would kick and who would receive the first regular game of the year got under way on September 13. The two teams Watkins and Isaacs lined up and the kick sent them rushing into battle with a determination to win. But as most games go there is always a winner and a loser. One team Watkins elated, the other Isaacs dejected.

Many students spent an exciting evening from 5:30 to 6:30 watching the teams (Bob Necsary's, Greg Isaac's, Dale Knupp's and John Watkins') battling for first place. Dale Knupp, the quarterback of his own team, took an early lead and stayed there by a narrow margin. Many of Dale's games were won by one or two points gained in the last few minutes.

Necsary's team, one of the toughest teams in both defense and offense placed second. This team led by the evasive quarterback Cotton Necsary along with the quick hands of Gary Jacques and the height of David Zimmerman seemed always to be playing on the opponents half of the field.

John Watkins and Gregg Isaac's teams tied for third place. Two of John's greatest assets on the line were Mike Riley and Glenn Purdie. Quarterback Isaacs was a favorite to watch. Many a time when things went wrong you would see him scrambling back toward the wrong goal with a couple of big linemen after him, but more often than not he was able to elude these men and get the ball down field for yardage. Gregg's right end, Kimber Burly was known for his speed on both offense and defense, but more than this he was known for his soccer-type kick which would send the ball sailing deep down field.

The climax of the season came when the S.V.A. seniors played the seniors of T.A. on college day. The victory came to S.V.A. when Cotton passed to Gary Jacques who then ran it in for a touchdown to bring S.V.A. out on top 6-0. This game was the end of the season here at S.V.A., a season which we feel has not only been good, but the best!

Thea Fia Presents An Evening In Shangri-La

Thea Fia Club Officers

FIRST SEMESTER: Renee Lawrence, Cynthia Bendall, Sherry Newman, Carole Dendy, Wanda Lawrence, Linda Crouch, Nancy Welton, Debbie Morris, and Jani Burkey.

SECOND SEMESTER: Joyce Hamer, Michelle Truax, Twila Tattrice, Carla Bigelow, Debbie Clements, Sue Dillon, Esther Von Pohle, Alphild Bloise, and Rachel Fluharty.

LOWER RIGHT: Boys' Club president Kimber Burley expresses appreciation to President Cynthia Bendall.

Boys in white dinner jackets, girls in long, flowing gowns, strains of exotic Oriental music, the enticing aroma of Far Eastern dishes, for one brief, shining evening transformed the campus into "Shangri-La." Dinner served by lantern glow and brightly colored paper parasols added to the atmosphere.

Soft green, red, and blue lights lit the corridors of Hadley Hall as the students viewed the rooms. As couples entered Zirkle Auditorium, they walked from a gold tunnel into a paradise of rustling paper and colored lights. A fish pond decorated with lilies and floating golden candles beneath a black bridge was the centerpiece of the room, and as a backdrop, a chalk mural of a five story orange, yellow, and black pagoda decorated the stage wall.

The program, emceed by Elder Albert Ellis, featuring the theme song "Shangri-La" and other beautiful music was the night's entertainment. After the feature film, "The Sword and the Rose" the lovely evening came to a close.

Pam Stoner and Glenn Purdie typify the many radiant couples who spent a most enjoyable evening.

Students Lay Their Sins On The Burning Altar During Week Of Prayer

Elder Gerald D. Bras led in the Fall Week of Prayer. During the week he talked with and encouraged students. At the end of the inspiring sermon, "Triumph of Surrender," a burning altar was placed in the front of the chapel. Nearly all placed papers on which they had written the sins they wanted burned and forgiven. The sermons on Christ and His death made a special impact on many minds. As the week drew to an end, the religious atmosphere on campus had greatly improved.

"Forward March, M. V. Youth"

M. V. Officers:
Mrs. Kathleen Riley,
Duane Schoonard,
Gary Cooper, Leader;
Donna Bras,
John Watkins,
Jody Pine, and
Mr. Copenhaver, Sr.

"We have a might army,
Ready to do and dare;
We have a hope within us,
A faith to live and share.
Forward we'll march together,
With Christ we have no fears.
Let us carry high His banner,
Missionary Volunteers.

The M. V. theme song has not remained just a song but has become part of our aim and motto for life.

When we have seen films like the ones that portrayed the life of Christ and have heard Elders Theodore Carcich and Archa O. Dart tell of God's direction in their own lives, then we have seen clearer our task as youth to go and preach the gospel in all the world.

This year M. V. officers have successfully endeavored to get every student active in M. V. attendance. It is the desire of the club officers to see SVA youth continually progressing toward church leadership tomorrow and God's eternal home in the future.

Master Guide Officers--

Students Train As Future Church Leaders In Sabbath School Program

The Sabbath School is one organization at SVA which requires the work of many. Each semester approximately thirty student teachers are selected. Two student teachers in addition to a faculty teacher are assigned to each class, and they rotate on a three week basis the teaching of the Sabbath School lesson.

Other students are needed to serve as superintendents, ushers, usherettes, and receptionists. The Sabbath School, conducted by the students, gives opportunity for development of student abilities as well as study of the Bible.

Ron and Don lead in a medley of folk songs.

S. A. President Ramsey makes the spotlight.

CUC English Professor Gray emceed the program.

The "Bickersons" can't sleep.

They decide to sing it out.

CUC Choral Groups Perform

The Columbia Union College Choir and Pro Musica, under the direction of Paul Hill, graced our campus with inspirational numbers to close the Sabbath and presented a variety of secular numbers featuring Elmer Carreno as tenor soloist at the Saturday night program. Ladies who seemingly hatched eggs enlivened one song, while Renaissance madrigals added a serious tone to the program which concluded with an explosion of "Oklahoma."

Bangaroo In Richmond Features

Harlem Globe Trotters

Basketball was the name of the game, Richmond was the place. The Harlem Globetrotters put on a spectacular show for about 100 happy students who had solicited 16 or more subscriptions in the SHEN-VAL-LORE campaign. The crazy antics of Meadowlark Lemon carrying the ball and eating cotton candy at the same time, bald-headed "Curly" hardly ever missing a shot, the pre-game and half-time shows all combined to make an excitingly different Bangaroo.

Choral Department Produces 4th Record

This has been a year of lively activity for the choral department. Unique secular programs included songs from around-the-world, madrigals, and "Up with People" numbers. The sacred programs made a special impact on the minds of the audience and students alike, as each member introduced a song. As the group traveled from the Tidewater area to Washington, D.C., many inspirational experiences were gained as they for the first time sang in churches not of our denomination. One particular highlight was the performance at Langley Air Force Base.

These were all steps leading the group to the highlight of the year, the long awaited 1968 Chorale record, recorded over a three day span at the Faith for Today studio in New York City.

The Shenandoans IV, Shenvaletts, Senior Girls; Quartet, and a new accordin trio added that extra spice to each concert.

Shenandoah is very fortunate this year to have a new Allen Custom Special IV organ, the largest electronic organ in the Valley. It greatly enhances the reverent atmosphere of religious services in addition to providing practice facilities for organ students. The cost of the organ, approximately $15,000, is being divided equally by the SVA Alumni, the Potomac Conference, and the SVA music department.

Boyson Sets A Lively Pace

This year's new instrumental organizations have added something sparkling to our school life. The vibrant director, Jack K. Boyson, has set a good pace for a musically marvelous year. The concert band of 46 members took two weekend trips, one to Washington, D. C., and the other to Richmond, Virginia. They also gave a concert for a group of church school students during a one-day field trip to the Washington area. Along with the Band, the Wind Ensemble composed of 28 members and the Brass Ensemble of 8 members presented unique concerts, not only secular but sacred, at such places as Danville, South Boston, Charlottesville, and Waynesboro.

Christmas Comes To Shenandoah

Excitement, parties, twinkling lights in the windows, holly, mistletoe, and evergreen sprigs decorating rooms and hallways, girls stealing silently across the campus to carol the boys, and later, the boys returning the gesture, the annual Christmas tree lighting where students add to the spirit by singing and playing instruments, all climax in the S.A. Christmas Party held this year at Ski Bryce Lodge. Songs, skits, readings, and a movie--"Third Man on the Mountain" rounded out the evening and the season.

SA Moves Ahead Under Ramsey's Leadership

The realm of the Student Association far exceeds that of a club. It symbolizes the spirit of Shenandoah. Good character, citizenship, and leadership are the objectives of the Student Association. A warm friendly spirit is a heritage of Shenandoah, and interest and loyalty are stressed through the Senate, the governing body of the Student Association.

If one word were to be used to describe the Student Association, it would be co-operation. The Student-Faculty Council has become an effective instrument, giving students and faculty the opportunity to discuss issues of mutual concern. This year has produced a complete turn over in election procedure and a much expanded social program. The tone of our spirit is high and ever rises for Shenandoah is a moving, growing academy. I would like to express my thanks to the Senate and my officers for doing an unsurpassed job in every aspect. But the congratulations for this year's leap forward lies in each student and faculty member of Shenandoah. May God richly bless the future students of Shenandoah as they continue to Build for Eternity.

SVA Boasts First Fire Fighting Course In SDA Academies

Fire Fighting is a new and exciting addition to our school curriculum this year. Victor Hilbert, teacher and chief of the Fire Training Division, is responsible for the development of the course and has provided a fire truck to augment the training program. A local resident donated a second truck for use in rescue work. Fighting real fires, viewing films, taking field trips, and hearing guest lecturers fill in the class time of trainees. Membership in the class totals 16 students and 3 faculty members. We salute the contribution this course is making to the over-all program here at the academy. This new and challenging course is designed to train vocationally-orientated students for greater service as they go from SVA to serve God and man in their communities.

Congressman Don Clausen of California, one of the evening's judges, congratulates all of the orators on their accomplishments: Don Cruze, Ted Toms, Valerie Yonke, and Mindi Miller.

Elder Bras, Potomac Conference Temperance secretary, presents the cash award to winner Ted Toms.

Toms Chosen As Top Temperance Orator

Greg Issacs poses with his winning entry in the poster contest.

Ted lets them know where he stands on the temperance issues. "Young Men Will Dream Dreams" was the title of his winning oration.

Temperance has many meanings that can be attached to its root word--temperate, but there is only one objective towards which the students of SVA are striving--total temperance in all things, including tobacco, narcotics, liquor, food, recreation, and physical exertion. It was God's original plan that man keep his body like unto a holy temple, undefiled in all accords. This is the goal that Adventist youth all over the world are striving to attain.

Newly Organized Cheer Teams Enliven Spirit School

This year a new attraction was added to the sports scene--Varsity Cheerleaders. With their outfits of navy blue sweaters and skirts, black and white saddle oxfords, and puffy white pompons, they add color and excitement to every basketball game. Their enthusiastic cheers spur the teams on and create more spirit among the spectators.

. . . Even Against Donkeys

The donkeys names were Honey Pot, Elvis, Super Stupid, Rigor Mortis, Thunder Ball, Snuffy, Kilroy, and Beetle Bomb. Faculty and students rode, dragged, pushed, slapped, and pleaded with them in a hilarious game filled with unexpected highlights as each player mounted the donkeys to shoot, only to be rightly deposited on the floor in various odd positions.

Alumni
Strike
Back . . .

The All Star Team had been preparing for that big night, February 10. They hoped to repeat last year's victory, yet realized this year's game, win or lose, was going to be a hard fight, for the Alumni showed up with an outstanding team, and they took an early lead. The All Stars came back in the 2nd quarter and the score at half time was 30-30. During the 2nd half, the Alumni took another quick lead, maintaining it throughout the game to a winning score of 77-64. Though the Alumni played an exciting game and won this year, next year there will be another chance and another game.

All Stars Receive Intensive Training

This year's All Star Team was made up of ten men chosen for their ability, potential, and previous record. The All Stars practiced two evenings a week from 9-10 o'clock. The first couple of practices consisted of running exercises designed to build up the teams' stamina. Under Mr. Copenhaver and Mr. Bristow's direction, the team members improved their shooting skills and learned to work together as a unit. During the latter part of the training, they were put on a sugar-free diet to improve their health and build it up for the Alumni game.

Seniors Don Mortarboards In Rehearsal

That silly MC, our own Garry Cooper.

"Left, Right--three, four."

Wide-eyed, adoring freshmen laughing the loudest of everyone at the corny jokes; sophisticated sophomores, still excited, and maybe even awed, but not willing to show it; then juniors with dreams of the future in their eyes; and finally the day comes when you aren't watching and waiting anymore--it's your class who is marching with candles, wearing paper mortarboards with yarn tassels, and eating the special breakfast while everyone with eggs and cold cereal looks on in envy. Your classmates play and sing the songs, act in the skits, crack the corny jokes, and finally sing the class song while everyone stands. And all the while you only listen with half an ear, because the rest of you is looking back and remembering. When the program is over and just your class remains, you sign hats and ask each other if it was as good as the one you had looked forward to, and, in a way, you know it wasn't, because waiting was most of the fun. The occasion, even with all the laughter and songs, is a sobering one because you know it's bringing you one step closer to the day when you will march again, but then the hats won't be paper, and the tassels won't be yarn.

Sigma Beta Chi Takes

Girls who only a few hours before were walking around with rollers in their hair and cold cream on their faces were suddenly transformed into lovely young ladies. Boys who just barely had time to change from sweat shirts and jeans after putting the last touches on their handiwork became handsome and charming young gentlemen.

As the couples came into the dining hall, they entered a world of Tahitian Islands. Their menu consisted of such strange dishes as bamboo shoots, coral reefs, and green leaves. Despite the unusual names, the food was delicious and put everyone in good spirits for the remainder of the evening.

The students entered the gymnasium by crossing a swaying bridge leading to, a paradise with flowers which encased a picturesque fountain with soft blue running water, a mammoth tahitian god, an authentic-looking island hut, and a large, realistic backdrop of a beach with golden sand, waving palms, and deep blue water which crossed the whole room in front of the stage.

Elder Wayne Foster, the emcee, kept the students laughing while he introduced the enchanting musical selections, Bali Hai by Miss Hansen, Tonight by John Watkins, Dear Heart by Mr. Boyson, and Secret Love by Daryl Lindsay. The conclusion of this Tahitian evening came with the movie "the Prince and the Pauper".

Those few moments of waiting provide more tension than the whole evening put together.

Bonnie Benn and Gregg Isaacs finally make it.

Now the couples can relax and enjoy the exotic tahitian meal.

Your life is a precious book. With each passing day you print a new page. Throughout the years, some of these become torn, some wrinkled, some burned, some stained, and some preserved forever. We the 1968 Shenandoah staff, hope that as you turn back the pages of chapter 1968 of your life; you will find most of them those which are preserved forever.

A college is where teenagers grow into men and women who are ready to face the responsibilities of life in our complex world. CUC is just such a college. On its staff are provocative teachers, some of whom are among the best in their fields. But don't take my word for it. Come to CUC and find out for yourself.

April, 1968 the erection of a Campus Center building will begin. Located on Flower Avenue adjacent to Morrison Hall, this four-story building will provide for a modern dining room, student lounge, health center, bookstore, snack bar, guest rooms and Student Association offices. There will also be offices and classrooms for the Behavioral Science, Nursing, Physics, and Mathematics departments. It will bring to the campus an integrated center meeting every need of the student body. Added to the two modern dormitories, it will make living on the Columbia Union College campus efficient and comfortable.

Several years ago you began your personal quest for knowledge. That first day of school brought you in contact with a completely new world—a world of knowledge.

But much of the knowledge of a decade ago is now obsolete. It has been superseded by new discoveries, new ideas, and new methods.

Knowledge is increasing at a fantastic rate and will continue. There is only one Source of knowledge that does not change because it is constant. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

(1) The youth of the church are a valuable possession and constitute its potential membership as well as its future workers. Because we believe in our youth, we spend time, energy, and money to provide educational facilities such as represented by the Vienna Junior Academy.

(2) The music camp, conducted by the M. V. Department at Blue Ridge Youth Camp under the direction of some of the denomination's best music instructors, has proven invaluable to the many youth who attend. Private instruction and group participation in band and orchestra is a rewarding experience.

(3) Youth camps highlight the summer's activities for our boys and girls. Waiting for dinner call is a time of happy moments for campers and staff.

(4) Sharing their faith in various ways bring the greatest joy and fulfillment to the youth. Youth for Christ meetings bring a real challenge, whether participating as speakers, singers, or ushers. All are happy in working for Christ. Youth, rightly trained, will finish the work assigned to "this generation."

Who falls for the love of God, shall rise a star.—Ben Jonson

Many who have graduated from Shenandoah have given their lives to service. We pay special tribute to Eddie Spencer and Don Titus, both graduates of SVA, who have given up their lives in the Viet Nam conflict. Inestimable value is rightly placed upon those who, in the spirit of the widow who gave up her two mites, have given up their lives to save others. Their names sparkle as if overlaid with gold; they are preserved in the treasure house of heaven.

I do not know why oft round me,
My hopes all shattered seem to be;
God's perfect plan I cannot see,
But some day I'll understand.

Eddie Spencer

Elder Weis

Elder Weis Presents Practical Christianity With A Happy Wit

Christianity is a missionary religion, and Elder Weis is a Christian missionary "converting, advancing, aggressive, encompassing" a needy world with a hope and a cheerful spirit. No man is so happy as the real Christian, none so helpful, so amicable. He is not vain, although he believes himself united with God. His is radiating religious practicality that inspired our campus while he was on it during the Spring Week of Prayer.

Later in the year Elder Weis returned with Elder Broderson to participate in the annual Ingathering Drive. Under the capable leadership of these visitors and the co-ordinating efforts of our own faculty, SVA set itself above all previous field days in the amount solicited.

Monkey And Magic Amuse Student Body

The chump made the barrel of students roll with smart remarks and gave smarting blows to all who came too near. (We can't possibly come from monkeys: they're too smart!)

Elder Haas, former SVA principal, showed us the tricks which keep him in the trade. A man with various talents, he displayed his magic with more than amateur ability. Elder Haas's son and daughter-in-law are members of the SVA staff.

"Mr. Bendall, keep your shirt on."

"Here, while they're looking in the box, I'll just put it in the flower vase."

Dee Litten

Months of practice and lots of planning make up a night of music, comedy, excitement, and talent. Grand Prize was awarded to Daryl Lindsay for his piano solo. Prizes were also awarded by sections. Bonnie MacDougall was the first place vocal winner; Twila Tattre and Nancy Heller won first place with their tumbling act in the novelty section; and Daryl Lindsay won first place in the instrumental section. Guest performer, SVA alumni Dee Litten added even more to the beauty of the evening as she sang while the judges totalled the ballots. The evening concluded with the showing of Walt Disney's "White Wilderness."

Senior Wills Go Uncontested

At the reading of the wills Diane Veto and Bob Necsary visually testified to the grief of most Seniors upon their departure from SVA. In the picture to the left Cynthia Bendall reluctantly gives up her cheering pompons to Michelle Truax, and below Ray Bristow and Gerald Cross, having reached their second childhood, indulge in a little cops-and-robbers before they settle for the sedate life ahead of them.

"If you get low enough, Bill, he'll have to call it a 'ball.'"

"I'll knock Vern off his feet with this one."

Upperclassmen Lose Themselves In A Day Of Fun At Lost River Park

"Pay attention to the food, Gail."

Attentive, diligent, serious and hard-working juniors serve lunch to the seniors.

"Clarice, you forgot the butter."

The picnic, as you can see, was out of this world.

"Okay, Pam, so it makes more noise!"

Language Department Sponsors Trip To Puerto Rico

Thirty students boarded the jet that took them south to a week of perfect weather and lots of fun. For many of the students the trip from Dulles Airport to San Juan was their first jet ride. A special highlight of the trip included an air excursion to St. Thomas Island. Students will not soon forget the beaches, stores, scenery, swimming, and sight seeing, as well as the mosquito bites and sunburns, that made this Spring vacation different from all others.

Seniors Travel To Poconos For 3 Day Retreat

Boating, horseback riding, swimming, tennis, golfing, and socializing and relaxing filled the agenda. There was hardly enough time to eat and sleep. Result? an enervated bunch of kids eager for even their dormitory beds and some rest, but happy to be fatigued.

Seniors Taste Faculty Life

The day began with an early morning chapel. Many chuckles were heard as the "faculty" was introduced. Classes went on as usual, with a senior in place of each regular teacher. The students seem to enjoy classes more than usual-- unless they were called into the senior Ad Council. The unfortunate were seen later that day scrubbing the ad building steps and sweeping the streets.

Coed Jackson Voted Pres. In SA Race

Sunday, May 12, proved to be quite different from a typical SVA Sunday. Not only was the SA picnic scheduled, but also the SA elections. At 5 a.m. doors of both dorms burst open and out poured students all trying to get the choicest spot for their candidate's poster. Between showers and running for shelter in the gym, races were run, ball games were played, and candidates campaigned. After a picnic supper, an outdoor assembly gave candidates opportunity for their final speeches. Each candidate came in amid a flurry of balloons and crepe paper while his fans cheered him on to victory. Ballots were cast and while they were counted the students watched the movie "Big Red." Afterwards the results were announced: President Suzanne Jackson, Vice-president David Leach, Secretary Donna Bras, Treasurer Gail Cooper, and Parliamentarian Steve Feedback.

Campus Sparkles After Clean-Up Day

Slacks, sweat-shirts, and bare feet were in style for the student body assembled for the day of work. After an organizational assembly at 8 a.m. students were armed with paint, windex, ajax, or mop and assigned to a work area.

After a hard day's work, tired muscles and aching backs relaxed at the movie shown in the gym as a reward for a clean campus.

Chaplain Green Speaks At MCC Banquet

Cadets in dress uniforms entertain socially.

Two highlights of the Medical Cadet Corps training program are the bivouac at Hidden Valley and the banquet in May. Training at Hidden Valley includes drill and duty work as well as numerous audio-visual presentations.

Elder Thomas Green, the featured speaker at this year's banquet, re-counted some experiences of SDA servicemen in Viet Nam. The Senior Girls' Trio, outfitted in fatigues entertained musically.

Twenty-Two Master Guides Invested

It was a long-awaited trip. Many hours of practice went into making the record, "Bow Down Thine Ear." After a strenuous day of recording in the Faith For Today studios, the chorale spent the last evening in New York City touring some of the sights.

Under the supervision of Miss Hansen and Mr. Bendall twenty-two SVA students prepared for and succeeded in achieving Master Guide certificates. Assisting in the investiture service were Elders Bras and Peterson from the conference and union MV Departments.

Dawn Marie Presents The 1968 Shenandoan

Part of that "hot stuff" the fire department tries to control included the 1968 SHENANDOAN one particular night in May. Next to graduation, this was the biggest day of Dawn Marie's school year.

Athletes Win Letters And Trophy

Assembly Discloses Two Surprises: One For Principal, One For Students

Principal Poole was surprised by the presentation of a sterling silver candelabrum and matching tray given by the student body as a token of their appreciation of his interest in and devotion to SVA.

Students were surprised with the announcement of the charter members of the SVA Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Former Principal Addresses Alumni Audience

Every student of SVA looks forward to the day when he can be counted among the SVA alumni. The annual weekend reunion brings hundreds to the campus. Outstanding in this year's program was the Sabbath sermon presented by Dr. George Akers, now of Andrews University. Also of special interest was the variety program put on by the alumni Saturday night.

The Beginning Of A Long Awaited Weekend

Seniors Dedicated In Candle-light Consecration Service

Seniors lit their candles and prepared to march; many thoughts ran through their minds. Consecration was the beginning of the end of a four year academy life. Columbia Union College professor Lester Harris delivered the sermon of consecration from the class gift, a beautiful pulpit. Special music was provided by Joyce Zentz and Clarice Moulder.

Shirley Forestman and Gary Miles--happy at last to be graduating seniors.

GC President Delivers Baccalaureate Address

Pictured at the left is Elder Robert H. Pierson, President of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, who delivered the morning address. Below him is Mrs. Richard Harris, soloist.

Participants in the baccalaureate service included, H. Thurber, R. Good, J. Clark, R. Pierson, R. Jacques, and C. Pine.

Seniors Honor Parents With Yellow Carnations

In a special "Tribute to Parents" program, parents and close friends were especially honored with floral tributes. In addition, the dedication beginning "Dear Mom and Dad" of the 1968 SHENANDOAN was officially read by Dawn Marie Clausen, editor of the annual.

The Stage Was Set For Class Night And . . .

Every graduate was attired in formal wear. The seniors were formally presented by couples, and as the names were read each couple walked between two beautiful candelabrum and down the center aisle of the gymnasium to the accompaniment of "To Dream the Impossible Dream," the theme song for the evening. Four skits and numerous special talent features brought back remembrances of SVA life during the past four years. The night came to an end all too soon and after singing the class song for the last time together, seniors walked under the crepe paper strewn archway as the Juniors sang "Farewell to Thee."

The Final Day; The Final Hour: Graduation

The Junior Class prepares to march the graduates in to their final appointment.

Congressmen Clausen Delivers Commencement Address

This time the nod from Mrs. Poole was for real; this was no rehearsal, but the reality for which each senior had waited. After the Honorable Don Clausen spoke to the graduating class the diplomas, honors, and scholarships were distributed by Principal Poole. The end had come to a never-to-be-forgotten weekend, but a brand new life was just commencing.

Class Motto: "Be thou faithful unto death . . ."

Class Aim: And I will give thee a crown of life."

Mr. Bendall and Mrs. Poole make sure that Mickie Newgard and Wayne Newall get started on the right foot.

The seniors solemnly regard the speaker's words.

Tommy Loren, and Susan cheerfully receive congratulations from friends.

The relief of laughter and the delight of graduation is evident on Pam and Glenn's faces.
