headed by Elder E. F. Reifsynder.

Nothing in this modern, complex world is more important than education — that is, Christian education. Each person receives some kind of education. The kind of education he receives dictates what kind of person he will be and what he will do for mankind.

Shenandoah Valley Academy is dedicated to the task of providing a Christian education to its students. Although blessed with beautiful surroundings, strong traditions, excellent campus, and practical buildings, the life of the school — its students — is the important factor in the school.

As this school year terminates, the student reviews the year's memories through the pages of this book. Its pictures stir vivid memories of classes, chapels, meetings, picnics, club activities, class functions, recreation, trips, missionary activity, and other activities too numerous to mention.

Yet, more important than memories is the fact that the student had the opportunity to learn what will make his life richer, and more useful and Christ-like. What memories he carries with him from SVA are secondary to tools of learning and ability he transports from SVA in order to serve mankind better, and to prepare others for a better life on this earth and for the life to come.

May each student fulfill his obligation to mankind.

You have laughed with us
when we were glad.
You have prayed with us
when we were discouraged.

You have given us
glimpses of the past that we might better prepare our futures.

Although never idle, you have never been too busy to be our confidant.

For all these things and many more,
The 1969 Shenandoan is dedicated to you: Mr. Clarence Williams

Mr. Williams with his wife Beverly, and children Roger, Barbie, and Jolene.

We draw upon the traditions of the past to enable us to look forward to the future.

As we advance,
the philosophy,
the purpose, and way of life remain.

Activities

Co-curricular activities factor individual talent and school spirit. The Student Association, Senate, and the Honor Society work for a smoother execution of social and academic life while the band and choir bring the school honor. The fire department and rescue squad develop useful skills for service to the community.

Sally Barnette, Jane Link, Bonnie Runion, Ray Gondera, and Kay Farrell wait while Mr. Williams counsels Pam Thomson.

Both Old and New Students Register

Mr. Copenhaver tried to scare out all but the best from his chemistry classes.

Mrs. Liers arranges Ellene's sophomore schedule.

The music department sits to judge the music ability of each student. Group instruction classes were offered for students who had had no previous musical training.

and Get Acquainted

The first few days of a new school year are hectic. There's so much to do—moving into the dorm, making new friends, attending to bells, and shedding tears of homesickness. Then comes registration and the headache of deciding what subjects to take. Brows knit together as faculty members help students plan their schedules.

With registration over, everyone can relax and enjoy Handshake. This year the tradition was made even more fun when each student was given a feathered hat with his name on it. After shaking hundreds of hands and smiling until their jaws were sore, students gathered on the tennis court with new friends for watermelon.

Faculty families, the Smiths above, greeted each student.

Leader of students Suzanne Jackson and leader of faculty Principal Reifsnyder stood at the head of the line.

White hats identify Anita Bestpitch, Denise Mitchem, and Julie Vejnar. Mr. White, in the background, displays the red hats worn by the boys and men.

Debbie DeBois begins meeting seniors Don Deal, Lloyd Knisbell, and Robert Miles after concluding the faculty section with her boss, Mr. Liers and his wife.

The Campus

Sue proves that the junior girls are bound to lose to seniors.

Dean Brown takes in the action.

Spectators Cooper, Bestpitch, and Bras exude delight as seniors lead in sports events.

Referee Copenhaver, catcher Depew, and batter Ashbaugh await the pitch.

Turns into a Picnic Ground

In addition to watching the games, picnickers could skate, play volleyball, tennis, badmitten, or croquet.

Mrs. Dove considers the long line against her supplies of food.

Sawdust flies in the face of Carol Workman.

DeWitte checks his pockets for someplace to put an extra brownie. Who could be satisfied with just one?

Woodacrats & Burkians Vie for a Close Victory

"Good evening, Ravid."
"Hello, Jet"

The campaigning Burkian and Woodacrat Parties led out with flashing signs and waving banners sprinkled with the colors of Old Glory. The annual Shen-Val-Lore subscription campaign paralleled the flourish of nation-wide activity as victories were sought on both levels.

Full campus-wide coverage was provided by local network reporters Debbie Clements and Karel Schneider. At least once a week during the four week campaign rallies were held. Skits and campaign songs, banners and cheering (that could be heard as far away as faculty hill), and the bonus of free postage for out-going letters spurred the letter writing on. Woodacrats and Burkians watched anxiously as the elephant and donkey thermometers began to warm up. Not since a long time ago had the girls been as worried about their "assured" victory as they were this year.

It seemed that if the mail brought the girls 30 subs, it also brought the boys 30 subs. The in-coming letters were counted every day, but strangely, even till the last, the returns for both sides remained about equal. Not until the very last day of the campaign were the Burkians safe in proclaiming a victory celebration. Had the Woodacrats received only 15 more subs, the honors would have gone to them.

Debbie Clements and Karel Schneider were guest commentators covering the campaign rallies.

Barry Wood was a good choice for boys' leader. His lung power was sufficient.

But Janie Burkey gave him good competition and led her side to victory.

Here the boys stand in support of their leadership. Rally songs played a big part in maintaining the campaign spirit.

Energetics Debbie Dawson, Terry Thomas, and Sally Hartman lead the Burkian support band.

Janie's announcements brought cheers to Bobbie Hughes, Gae Lawter, and Debbie Clements.

King Wood commands his loyal servants: Loren Hagar and George Guiner.

Hats and horns of the Trumpet Trio kept the boys coming on.

The Woodocrats rousing numbers nearly led them to a campaign victory.

Even freshman get in the action. Kim Schneider added his own special kind of noise.

A new outing to Skyline Drive provided an afternoon of relaxation in the rustic fall beauty of the woods.

Miss Schwerin calls, "Chow time," and all crowd in for a Holsum picnic supper.

S V A Treats Students to a Skyline Drive

The aurora of colored leaves carpeting the ground mixed with a setting sun to produce the romantic mood expressed in song by Marco Mejia.

On a bright fall afternoon the student body, with faculty members along too, boarded the buses for a delightful and unforgettable drive through Shenandoah National Park. We stopped at Big Meadows Visitor Center. There the Park Ranger gave us a talk and told us how truly lucky we are to have this beautiful country side. He warned that soon this breath-taking land may be covered with houses because land is getting so scarce. The ranger then showed us a nature film about the park.

After the film, we boarded our buses and rode to Pennacles Picnic Area. While there we ate and had fun together. Towards dusk we had worship and thanked God for His goodness and nature.

All gathered around for evening worship as Elder Thurber reminded us of the Creator of nature.

Mr. Vega scrambles to roof of bus for photographs of group. Some may have suspected him of other motives!

SVA Fire Department Takes Active Part in Community

Shenandoah's Fire Department has taken on new dimensions this year with the addition of a rescue truck and ambulance. The ambulance is now a part of the Emergency Service provided for the faculty and students as well as those in our community.

Members of the Fire Department include faculty and students. Chief Hilbert is assisted by Assistant Chief and Principal E. F. Reifsnyder and Deputy Chief and boys' dean Jack Boyson. A new siren has been placed atop the fire station and already the department has answered several calls.

We are proud of our Fire Department and believe it is the only one of its type in North America where high school boys may receive classroom credit towards graduation.

Missionary Volunteer Society Inspires Spiritual Atmosphere on Campus

The Missionary Volunteer organization, sponsored by Elder Reifsnyder, Elder Thurber, Miss Schwerin, and Miss Vance have aided the student leaders in planning inspirational programs. The M.V. has encouraged participation of the student body in the sunshine and literature bands.

Sigma Beta Chi Open House

After long preparation, the transformation from curlers and slacks into the beautiful young ladies of formals and attractive hairdos was accomplished. The young men who had made quick changes from T-Shirts and jeans to handsome Prince Charmings escorted their dates to the W. H. Jones cafeteria for the banquet. Sigma Beta Chi president Bill Bestpitch welcomed the guests and presented the cooks with one dozen long-stemmed red roses. Next on the agenda was a tour of J. Lee Price Hall. A newly added wrought-iron partition marked off the lounging area of the lobby. The gym was decorated with a large flower covered arch, column ruins, an Italian flower cart, and an artificial river and bridge. Probably the most beautiful decoration was the backdrop, a drawing of the leaning tower of Pisa. We were musically favored with solos, a girls trio, and the Neophonic Group, and Elder Kenneth O'Guin was our emcee. The cinematografo for the evening was entitled "The Gift of Love." Many of us watched it with tears in our eyes, but enjoyed it all the same.

Twerp Night Fun Taxes Student Creativeness

Twerp night was a fun-filled night when everyone dressed up in costumes. The winning costumes ranged from the prettiest — Kendall Snedden and Shirley Seek dressed as a nineteenth century couple to the weirdest — Frankenstein David Zimmerman, Charlie Stevens, Frankenstein's master, and David Ferrell, the mad creator of Frankenstein. Recognition for the funniest costume went to Gwen Phillingane, who dressed as a bent, old lady. Coral Cabral wore a terrycloth shift that was plastered with paraphernalia entitled, "Saturday Night Bath." The best couple was undoubtedly Brenda Smith and Ricky Bramble. They portrayed a small boy and girl during the early part of the century. Brenda was pulled around the gym in a little red wagon by her beau Rick.

David Leach, SA vice-president, emceed the program. There were songs, drum and guitar playing, and skits for entertainment. To top the night off, winners broke open a pinata. A mad dash for the candy as it poured out put everyone in the action.

Sub Campaign Winners Attend D.C. Horse Show

On Sunday evening, November 3, approximately 75 students boarded buses heading for the Washington International Horse Show. Students who solicited at least 12 subscriptions to the Shen-Val-Lore joined the thousands of spectators at the National Guard Armory to watch the competition. Riders moved in unison with their mounts, timing, hurdling, racing to beat the clock. Tennessee Walkers demonstrated their unique form in the canter walk and trot. Ribbons of blue, red, and green fluttered from the bridles of the winning horses. Excitement mounted as the competition between nations became tighter in the quest for the coveted trophy, The President's Cup. Horses leaped walls, fences, and obstacles as high as 6'4". Great Britain took the trophy amid a roaring applause. General Westmoreland congratulated the winner for a splendid performance.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police performed their world-famous Musical Ride. Thirty-two superbly disciplined horses and men performed intricate routines to the music of a live brass band. The colorful spectacle of flashing red uniforms and black horses wheeling in perfect step will long be remembered by each winner.

SVA Dedicates Organ

The $17,500 Allen Organ was dedicated during Sabbath services on November 23, 1968. SVA's new organ is the largest of its kind in the valley. It was financed by the Potomac Conference, the Alumni Association, and the SVA music department.

The organ's usefulness has already been demonstrated in the music department's instrumental training program and the weekend worship services. Camp meeting gatherings will also enjoy its warm tones.

The SVA chorale and band organizations highlighted the special service with "God of Our Fathers" and "All Earth Be Glad."

The key to the organ was presented to Principal Reifsnnyder by Norman Whitsel, owner of Whitsel Music in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

The key was then entrusted to Miss Teresa Hansen, SVA piano-organ teacher.

Dr. Winton Beavon, CUC president spoke on the nature of true worship.

SVA Selects First Junior Deacons

The junior deacons were dedicated in November by Elder Reifsnnyder, SVA Principal, Elder Thurber, local pastor, and Elder Foster, head of the Potomac Conference Education Department.

Many New Projects

The Student Association held the annual tree lighting after a Saturday night program put on by CUC. As the crowd stood shivering in the cold air, the lights on the huge tree suddenly blinked on. The pretty sight was worth the cold. Afterward the students went to the cafeteria for hot chocolate.

The Christmas party was held in the lodge of a nearby ski resort, Ski Bryce. Mr. Copenhaver, Jr., was the witty master of ceremonies. Music and skits entertained the students. A candy-filled pinata provided by Mr. and Mrs. Strickland proved to be the most exciting event of the evening. The climax was a movie called "Good Morning, Mrs. Dove." The party was a perfect way to begin the Christmas holidays which started the following day.

Under the leadership of Suzanne Jackson, the SA has started several new projects this year. One is the Candlelight Hour. Once a month the students go to the cafeteria after the Saturday night program for punch and a chance to talk quietly by candlelight. The SA also sponsored an October party, "Twerp Night." The original costumes and the prizes awarded made it a fun-filled evening.

Involve Over 20% of Student Body

It is important that pupils, as a part of general education, learn to appreciate, to understand, to create, and to criticize with discrimination those products of the mind, the voice, the hand, and the body.

Youth today face two radically different forces. Schools push for excellence in all subjects. At the same time, the mass media outside the schools all too frequently focuses students' attention on shallow, mediocre models of the good life. Students exercise value standards as they make independent, intellectual judgments about the artistic quality in all their experiences.

All secondary school students, therefore, need experiences in understanding music, art, and literature. Otherwise they base their decisions on the stereotype and prejudices which can easily be manipulated by the mass media and by superficial shifts in fashion. Students need to learn how to exercise social responsibility in making personal and group decisions about the arts. The music department at SVA is attempting to provide this experience.

The beauty of choral music has brought much warmth and inspiration this year to the students and faculty of Shenandoah. The Choir with its 55 members sings often for Sabbath services in addition to traveling to the Washington, D.C., area twice each year. Moments of joy, tears, traveling strain, and the making of new friends all contribute to a most memorable experience for each choir member.

The Chorale combines 32 select voices dedicated to presenting Christ and the joys of Christian living to thousands each year throughout the Potomac Conference. Appearances before television audiences and civic organizations plus numerous church services and secular concerts provide a memorable year of singing, traveling, and witnessing.

A new dimension was added to traveling this year. Five one-day trips were taken to Educational Rallies in the Conference from Vienna to Wytheville. At each rally the Chorale witnessed to prospective students in the hope that they, too, would make the decision to attend SVA.

C U C Promotes College with Secular and Sacred Programs

Columbia Union College has provided us with much spiritual inspiration and secular entertainment this year. One Friday evening the ACT group showed us slides and told how they had witnessed by working at the Tidewater Memorial Hospital, holding story hours, arranging community prayer breakfasts, and conducting Youth For Christ meetings. They also sang and gave a short talk on the old, English habit of drinking tea.

John Watkins, a former SVA student emceed a lively Hootenanny program to spice up one of our Saturday nights.

CUC Pro Musica and Choir enriched our spiritual life with inspiring music for a Sabbath vespers program. They stayed by and gave us some secular entertainment.

Liers and Leach Lead Class of '72

The Freshmen Class announced their officers January 21, 1969. Mr. Lloyd, the town police officer, helped make their announcement possible.

After the nightly basketball game in the gym Officer Lloyd called David Wood to the floor. On hearing his name, many of the kids started laughing, making gestures, and some piped out with, "Oh, oh, Wood, what did you do now?" Then the rest of the class officers were called to the floor.

Basketball Teams Fight a Competitive

All Stars are chosen by the head of the physical education department to play in the annual Alumni Basketball Game. These players are chosen to be All Stars because of their potential, and they put everything into the game. The All Stars drill in training for two solid weeks before the game. This short training period is used by the coach to stress techniques in passing, shooting, and precision plays. The endless running demanded by the coach during practice is remembered by every All Star. The team aimed for victory over the alumni. The All Stars' skill and determination created excitement and spirit for the students and faculty as the alumni returned for the big event.

Battle for First Place

Basketball '69 may be described as a fierce competitive fight for first place. Our teams showed strength by muscling in for those close shots that are sure hits. Shots missed touched off springing battles for the rebounds. The fast breaks were the keys to racking up the winning points of the games. While winter's chill was nipping cold outside, spectators and players kept the gym warm with spirit and enthusiasm.

Temperance is different things to different people. To the 160 members of the American Temperance Society chapter of Shenandoah Valley Academy it is a way of showing our love and trust in Christ by following the guidelines He has given us for our well being. It also gives us an opportunity to help others see and understand the horrible effects of alcohol, tobacco, and drugs.

The main activities of the ATS Chapter this year were the sponsoring of the play, Prisoner At The Bar and the temperance oration contest. The play consisting of a cast of 22 students was performed on campus and was taken to several churches and schools in the conference. Temperance orations were given by 5 students on January 18. Bill Bestpitch took first place in the Oration Contest and Bobbie Hughes took 1st and 3rd place in the Jingle Contest. Second place was obtained by the combined efforts of Darlene Leach and Doreen Retzer. The Poster winners were Sharyn Childress, 1st place, Susan Allen, 2nd, and David Strickland, 3rd.

Several dorm worships, chapels, and movies were also sponsored by the ATS.

Seniors Get in Practice for Graduation

Early in the second semester senior committees begin planning one of the class's first official programs—Senior Breakfast. In more than one sense, the whole procedure is actually a training for graduation weekend. Not only do the seniors march with their lighted candles, but they begin to see for themselves the multitude of small details that must go into planning a successful event. On that final weekend there will be more decorations to make, skits to practice, music to approve, and steps to rehearse. And then the cap will be for real. But for this occasion, the caps are only cardboard, and so they are autographed and will long remain a treasured keepsake.

Silent seniors solemnly stand awaiting the end of the procession.

Bill Bestpitch opens up the program with a hearty "Good morning."

In the rush of the last minute preparations, Judy Johnson lends Candi Reed a helping hand.

Faculty

Academy teachers have a full time occupation. Time and effort is spent preparing for classes, making them interesting as well as educational. They are involved in every aspect of campus life. Refereeing a basketball game, emceeing a special program, organizing class meetings and trips, counseling and visiting with students fills the days.

Our Teachers: willingly they guide us . . .

Miss Cleo Bloom

It can be honestly said that Miss Bloom has one of the happiest smiles on campus. Every job that she undertakes is done well. She has been head of business education at SVA for two years and is an industrious worker on our social committee. Miss Bloom's hobbies are sewing and reading. Her home state is Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Copenhaver Jr.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Copenhaver are alumni of SVA. Mrs. Copenhaver teaches physical education and develops homemaking talents in home economics classes. Her hobbies are cooking and sewing. Copie, Jr. is well-liked for his sense of humor. Teaching chemistry and biology are among Mr. Copenhaver's responsibilities as head of the science department. Mr. Copie enjoys all sports.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henline
John, Jr. and April

Mr. and Mrs. Henline and their family came to SVA this year from West Virginia. Mr. Henline's athletic abilities have been shown by the active part he takes in sports. He continues this interest by coaching and teaching physical education. He also teaches Old Testament and is sponsor for the Temperance Society.

and patiently they help us . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Ralston Hooper and Valerie

Mrs. Hooper is a qualified librarian as she enjoys reading and travel. Mr. Hooper is head of industrial arts and drivers education classes. In his spare time he enjoys nature study, oil painting and crafts. Mr. and Mrs. Hooper have lived in India for fifteen years and traveled extensively throughout the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Liers

Mrs. Liers heads the math department and also teaches general science. Besides math she also enjoys music, sewing, and working in her garden. Mr. Liers is manager of the Bindery which employs so many of our students.

Mr. and Mrs. William Strickland, David, and Jan

Mr. Strickland has been teaching Spanish at SVA for eleven years. His home is Georgia. His favorite pastimes are birdwatching and swimming. He also collects coins. One of Mr. Strickland's responsibilities this year is assistant principal.

They act not only as teachers, but as our friends also.

Elder and Mrs. Herbert Thurber
This is the fifth year which Elder Thurber has been at SVA as teacher and pastor. Elder Thurber is an important asset to the religious activities on campus. He enjoys water skiing and photography in his spare time.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchel Vega
Mr. and Mrs. Vega have been English Teachers at SVA for four years. Mr. Vega can be found just about any place taking pictures for the Shen-Val-Lore which he sponsors. In his spare time he enjoys writing, serious music, photography and bird watching. Mrs. Vega is sponsor of the Shenandoan. Her hobbies include sewing, piano, and home furnishings.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, Barbie, Joleen, and Roger
Mr. Williams hails from Wisconsin and has been with us for five years. He teaches American history and government. The seniors choose him as their class sponsor and could not have made a wiser choice. Mr. Williams' favorite hobbies are golfing, ball, and skiing. He also has a special talent for singing.

Music Staff contributes to educational rallies.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyson and Tina Michelle
Mr. Boyson came to us from California last year. Mr. Boyson's sense of humor makes him well-liked at SVA. His responsibilities consist of band director, dean of boys, and fire fighting. He has a great interest in MGB sports cars and burping babies.

Miss Teresa Hansen
This is Miss Hansen's second year at SVA. Her charming personality and musical talents are an important asset to our school. She teaches piano and organ, and her other interests are camping, cooking, and water sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hilbert, Kevin, and Pam
This is Mr. Hilbert's fifth year as choral director at SVA. He also teaches general music and firefighting. His home state is Massachusetts. His hobbies are flying, golf, and firefighting.

Our administrators direct the spiritual, financial,

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brooks, Sally, and Samuel

Mr. Brooks has been farm manager for two years. If you were walking by the barn, you might hear a few solos, as he sings to the cows while milking them. Mr. Brooks enjoys all sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Collins

Steve and Christine Collins came to SVA from Andrews University. Mr. Collins works on the dairy as pasteurizing manager. Mrs. Collins is responsible for the management of the bookstore this year. Both he and his wife are noted for their friendly ways. Mr. Collins' hobbies are reading and photography. He is also an active bicyclist.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Copenhaver Sr.

Mr. Copenhaver, better known as Mr. Copie, has been at SVA for twelve years. His bright outlook on life and his consistent smile has endeared him to the hearts of all the students. Mr. Copie is responsible for being the custodian and campus caretaker. Mrs. Copenhaver is kept busy supervising in the laundry.

agricultural, and physical aspects of our lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lory Dove

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haas

Mr. and Mrs. Haas are both alumni of SVA. Mr. Haas has the responsibility of being assistant treasurer and also teaching world history. Mrs. Haas has shown her capabilities by her secretarial work in the bindery. Mr. Haas enjoys reading and traveling.

Elder and Mrs. E. F. Reifsnyder

Elder and Mrs. Reifsnyder came to SVA this year from Georgia Cumberland Academy. Elder Reifsnyder is responsible for having started Georgia Cumberland Academy. Along with the responsibility of being principal, Elder Reifsnyder teaches youth guidance. His busy schedule allows him little time for his hobbies of fire-fighting, fishing, and golfing. Mrs. Reifsnyder is library supervisor and enjoys knitting.

We appreciate their readiness to work, counsel, and

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith, Dennis, Brian, and Allan

Mr. Smith is our business administrator. His numerous responsibilities also include teaching bookkeeping and data processing. His hobbies are camping, photography, and tractors. If he's not in the business office, you're bound to see him on a tractor riding around campus.

Mrs. Kathleen Riley
Mrs. Riley's friendly face has been on our campus for eight years. During the day you'll find her in the laundry supervising the ironing and washing. She is also our assistant girls' dean and whenever you have a problem, she's ready to give wise counsel.

Miss Bonnie Schwerin

Miss Schwerin's happy smile is a pleasing addition to the registrar's office where you'll see her typing and doing various jobs for our principal. Miss Schwerin enjoys music, camping, and is very active in sports.

Miss Judy Vance

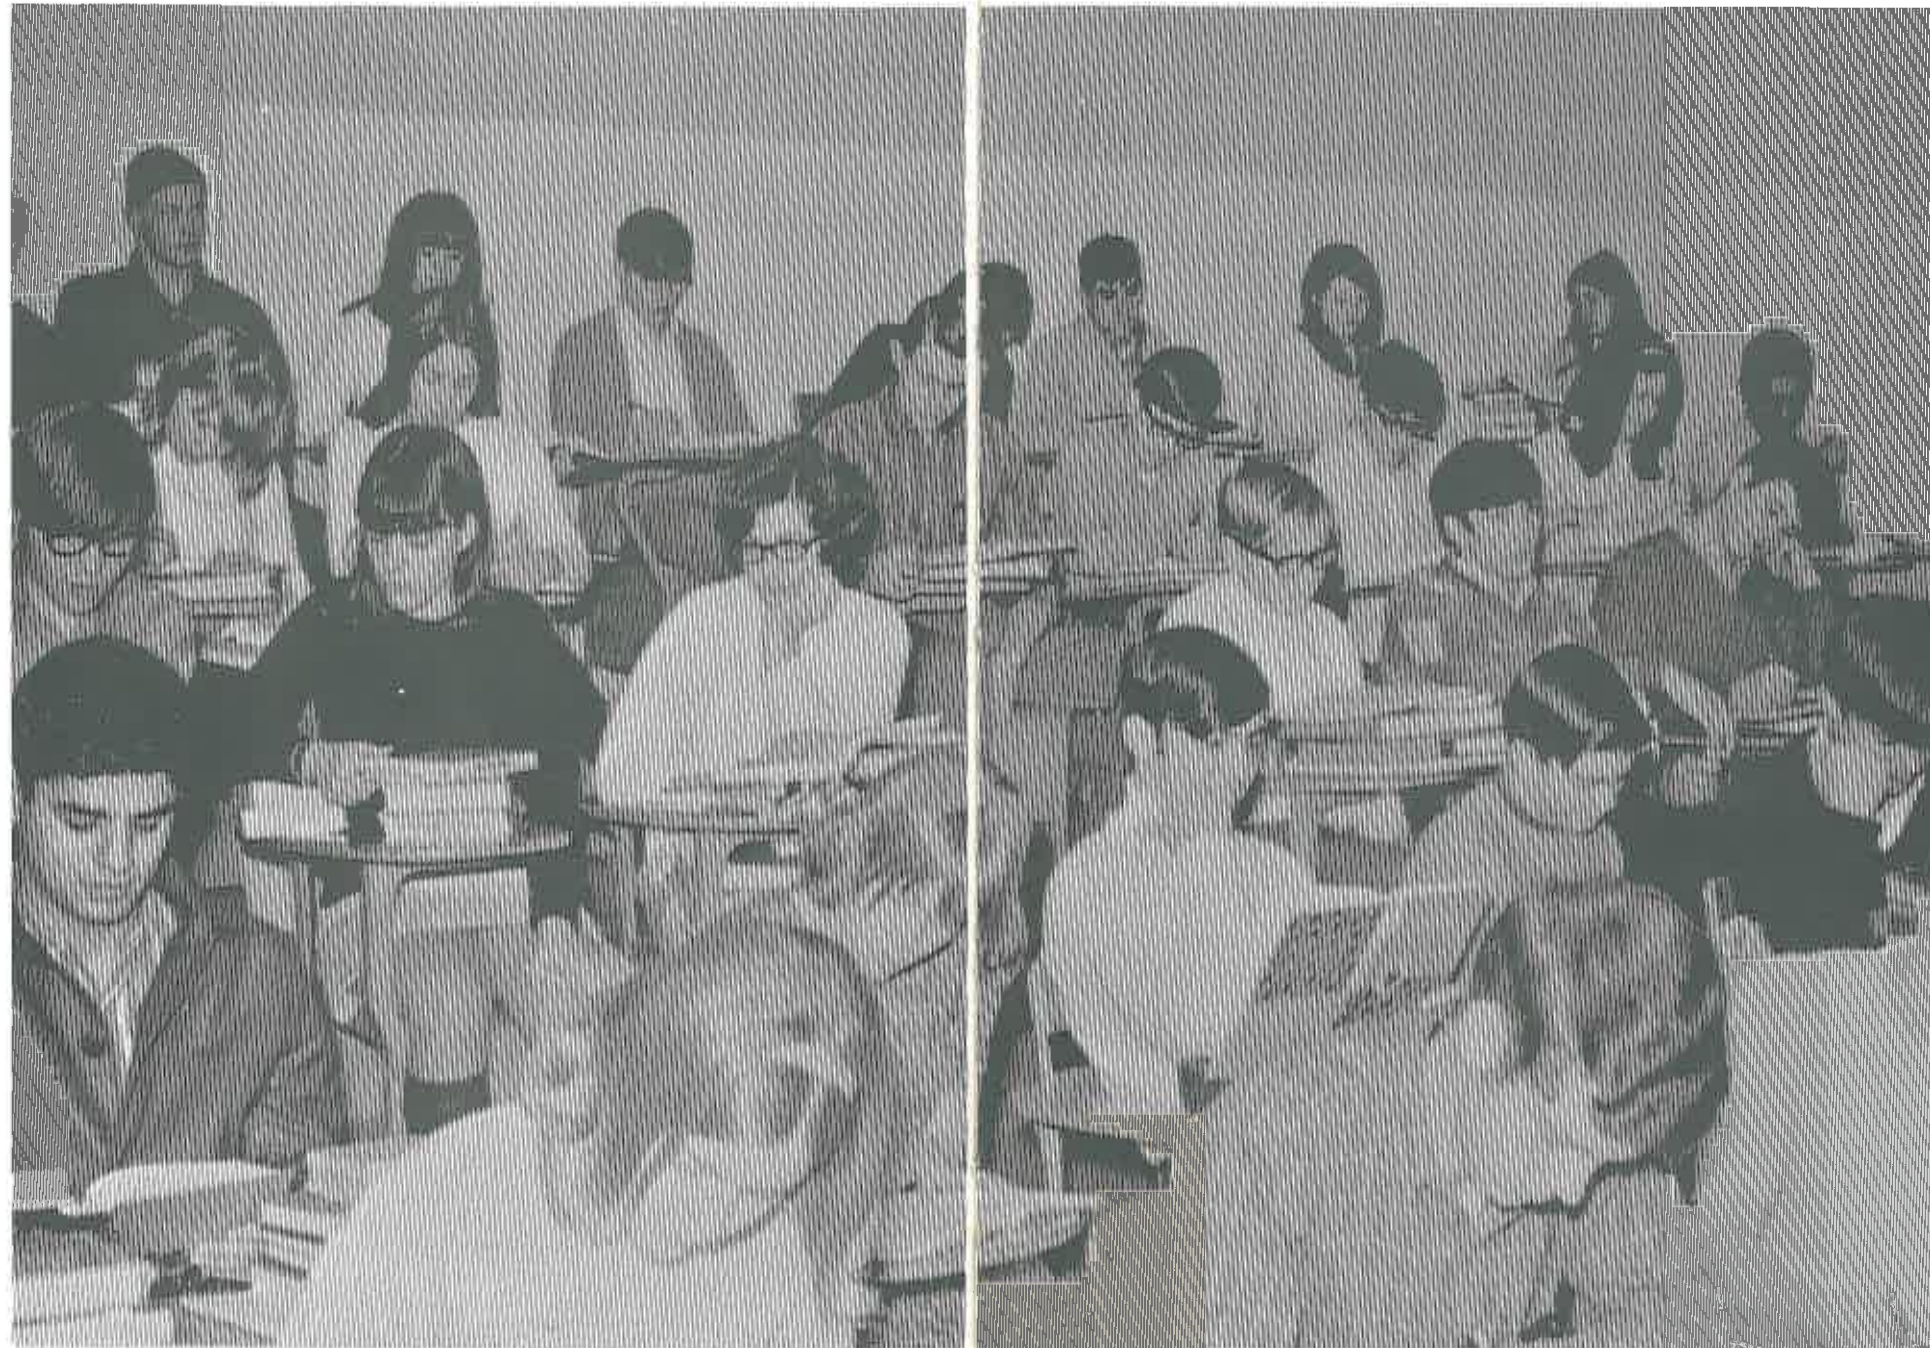

Our new girls' dean this year is Miss Vance. She comes to us from Georgia. Her kind, sweet nature has won her the friendship and respect of all the girls. She is never too busy to talk to someone or lend a helping hand. Her hobbies are swimming and horseback riding. She is also an avid reader and has a BA in English.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton White,
Bill, and Stevie

Mr. White has been the school maintenance supervisor for eleven years. His hobbies consist of ping pong, hiking, and amateur radio. He is also very active in the sports on campus.

Classes

The classroom is the focal point of academic work on campus. Finished assignments are handed in and new ones received. Ideas are exchanged with fellow students. Discussions, debates, lectures, and experiments broaden the mind enhancing the process of learning.

Senior Class Prospers Under Able Leadership

Senior sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Vega and Mr. and Mrs. Williams discuss class plans at the Senior Breakfast.

The Senior class announced its officers in connection with the Shen-Val-Lore campaign this year. The Woodacrat and Burkian parties had just announced themselves when a commotion in the rear of the gym began. Daryl Lindsay shouted that he was representing the third party and that he was going to present his candidates. He proceeded with the announcement of the Senior class officers.

At the beginning of second semester the vice-president, Doug Mayers, took the office of president due to an accident that caused Loren Hagar to lay aside his responsibility. Lloyd Schomberg was elected to fill the vacant vice-presidency.

Verne Altman
"Altman"

Verne came to SVA in his freshman year from Fredericksburg, Virginia. He is frequently heard voicing his opinion in classes and in SA meetings. Water sports, basketball, and music are high on his list of favorites; English assignments, tardy bells and bratty children get low ratings. With Verne's love for debate, he will make a fine lawyer.

S.S. Teachers 2, 3, 4... Junior Class V.P.... Band 1, 2, 3, 4.... Wind Ensemble 3, 4... Choir 4... Chorale 4... Sigma Beta Chi 1, 2, 3, 4.

Ana Maria Araguas
"Annie"

Venezuela is the home of this happy-go-lucky girl. She is often heard singing as she works in the dorm. Ana dislikes dumb people and folks who talk alot but don't say anything. Her hobbies are horseback riding, tennis, and swimming. "Just forget it!" she often exclaims. We wish Ana luck in her plans to attend Maryland University to train as a pharmacist.

Thea Fia 3, 4.

Ramon Araguas
"Beanie"

When Ramon came from Venezuela in his junior year he couldn't speak a word of English. Now he speaks our language as well as an American. His pet peeves are snoring and roommates who get up at four-thirty in the morning. Math is his favorite subject, but he doesn't care for biology. Ramon plans to become an engineer.

Sigma Beta Chi 3, 4.

Carla Bigelow
"Little-high"

Carla is full of spunk and fun. She is often heard defending the rebel flag. Carla enjoys receiving letters, collecting stuffed animals, reading, sewing, and English. Carla plans to attend CUC and become an elementary teacher.

Mrs. Ellen Council

The first, second, and third grade teacher is Mrs. Council. She has been in the valley for two years, and came from Roanoke, Virginia. When she is not in school or preparing lessons for her pupils, you may find her knitting or painting china.

Mr. Calvin Layton, B. S., M. A.

Mr. Layton and his family have been with the New Market Church School for five years. He is the principal of the school and teacher of grades seven and eight. Some of his spare time is spent playing his stringed instruments, camping, and collecting butterflies and moths.

Miss Sharon Roscoe, B. S.

Miss Roscoe is our new teacher of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. She comes to us from Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D.C. She spent four years at Southern Missionary College and enjoys many hobbies. The one that holds her interest most is stamp collecting.

What in the world is the new Campus Center Building doing up in the air?

It's being lowered on the campus of Columbia Union College and will be ready for use by the 1969 academy seniors. Standing in line for meals will be eliminated with the new cafeteria's scramble system where 100 can be served in four minutes. Study in new classrooms and counsel with teachers in new offices. Browse in the airconditioned book store and get acquainted with other freshmen in the beautifully carpeted lounge. Finish College in two and two-thirds years if you desire, on the trimester plan. The indefinable spark of curiosity is an important part of learning. Unfortunately, this spirit of inquiry, so prevalent in youth, diminishes in many people as they grow older. To lose this spark is to suffer from intellectual poverty.
