The Heart of the Valley

Deep in the heart of the Shenandoah Valley lies SVA, a school dedicated to training youth for Christ. It's majestic scenery provides a healthy, clean atmosphere for learning. The classes, the dorm, the worships, the activities are all designed as a basis for our future lives, not only after graduation but in our future heavenly lives as well.

SVA is unique in its experiences due to different individual contributions. Each student and faculty member adds a different piece to the puzzle of academy life. All members of the student family receive religion as their base to build, academics as tools with which to build, and friendships that bring love and fulfillment to the building. Each year men and women make their exit, from a sheltered academy life, to expand their horizons and make their mark in the world. Life is a growing experience and Shenandoah Valley Academy experiences can provide the opportunities of a life time.

The Heart of Shenandoah

Mike Slack flashes pearly whites and the "Slack dimples".

Yvette Kemerer and Joanne Marshall hurry off to classes.

Shenandoah sets the building stones of a strong foundation for a Christian life. All aspects of the school add to this life building process but that which contributes the most to our intellectual maturity is academics.

Students are encouraged to involve a spiritual relationship with the Father in all areas of daily school life, and in the life we lead from the protective shelter of a private school. Prayer is a regular part of most classes and daily worships are attended regularly.

We carry the influences developed at SVA for the rest of our lives: study technics for college, guidance in relation to marriage and children, coping with stress and hardships, how to develop long lasting friendships, and lastly how to continue a developing relationship with the Creator. Graduates leave their school home with a rounded development in intellectual, spiritual, social, and self discipline. The heart of a school is academics and the people that are a part of this here at SVA make it just a little more special to each one of us.

Sheri Sapp receives a word of council from Pastor Brown.

The Heart of S.V.A.

Friendships are a vital part of existence at SVA. They are what keep us going when the going gets tough, when we're homesick, or just plain in need of support and love. Friends are what create the memories we carry with us throughout the rest of our lives. From frightened freshmen to ambitious seniors lies a history of people relationships that have guided and encouraged (or misguided and discouraged) us through each day, each term, and each semester and year.

Shenandoah Valley Academy is widely known for its courtesy and openness demonstrated by the student body and administration. Our hearts open to you, the people, the campus, the community, the world, in hopes that someday all hearts can be joined in harmony as one Heart of the heavenly Valley.

To A Man With Heart

We, the students of 1983-84, dedicate this yearbook to the most important man on campus. He inspires us to do no less than the best and supports us when we do. Love and respect for each individual is evident in all he does whether it be on the softball field, the basketball court, or in the administrative council. His cheery smile and warm openness are only a few of the characteristics we hold in special regard. His strength of character and will have pulled our school through financial difficulties into prosperity and security. He has taken the initiative in projecting the endowment fund and made it possible for both a Harris Pine Mill and a nursing home to be available as work opportunities for students. Six years of hard work and a loving heart have woven this beautiful person into each of our lives.

We proudly dedicate our book to Elder Lyle Botimer.

The Heart of Dorm Life

The quickest way to become aware of yourself and others is to experience dormitory life. Suddenly you find yourself in the midst of a huge family and it isn't long until you discover the importance of consideration and sacrifice. Cold showers, late night study sessions and getting ready for Saturday night programs bring you closer to one another until you discover you have made a host of lifetime friends.

It's funny how, looking back over the year, the rough moments seem to fade and it's so much easier to remember the happy times. While grades and lectures will slip easily from your mind, you'll always treasure the memories of dorm life.

The Heart of Religious Activities

The heart of religious activities lies in the fellowship of God on our campus. Friday evenings move us across campus to enjoy a few minute's peace with our Creator, chapels bring thought-provoking inspiration into our hectic schedules, and Bible camp takes the fellowship of God into nature. The religious activities of Shenandoah Valley Academy profit the Spiritual life of each student daily to help him grow closer to the Lord, his Creator.

Daily Worships

Spiritual food for the day begins with chapel in the morning.

Sometimes special speakers are invited to present worships, such as the week of prayer speaker.

Mr. Nafie provides spiritual enrichment for the men of Price Hall.

Miss Simmons spends quality time with the ladies of Hadley Hall in thought-provoking worships.

Fred Crone gains inspiration from daily dorm worships.

Wednesday evening finds the men of Price Hall in quiet meditation.

Sabbath Services

Skits are often used in Sabbath School to get the point across. Maynard Wheeler, Keith Juhl, and Mark Armontrout provide a thought provoking example.

Many students share their talents for special music. Here Clive Possinger shares his for Friday night vespers.

Each Sabbath, spiritual insights are gained through the use of small concentrated Sabbath School classes.

Scripture and prayer are usually given by students such as Chris Franklin.

Music is a special part of church worship.

Clustered groups of students trailing across campus are a common sight each Sabbath morning.

Long lines outside the cafeteria are another common occurrence each Sabbath afternoon following the church service.

Week Of Prayer

April Henline and Melanie Hegamy share their singing talents in celebration of Pastor Brown's ordination.

Beaming outwardly, Elder and Laurie Brown receive congratulations following the ordination.

Pastor Brown reflects on his history of conversion and decision making.

Each evening meeting began with Buz leading the students in a joyful song.

Fall Week of Prayer was brought to us by Buz Menhardt. His enthusiasm and "excitement" was the main attraction.

Barclay Upchurch performs his duties as deacon by passing the communion sacraments.

Wesley Smith and Andre Scalzo enjoy sharing together in the ceremonial washing of the feet.

The week ended with a special communion service involving both the New Market congregation and the student body. The Shenandoans and bell choir highlighted the ceremony with musical selections, such as "Sons of God".

Bible Conference

Janelle Henry and David Sanchez spend friendly reflection time together. (right)

Hikes are a regular part of Bible Conference. Tommy Thayer and Angie Snow enjoy the view together from Spy Rock. (below)

Bible Conference wouldn't be Bible Conference without friends. Kim Hudson, Beth Jacobson, and Jimmy Sines illustrate their bond of friendship. (bottom right)

Janet Conley and Shelley Weber combine efforts to keep warm at Camp Blue Ridge.

The theme "Conscience Project" focused on the draft issue among Seventh-day Adventists. Juan Vargas, Tommy Thayer, Stephanie Bowers, and Robin Barbar discuss their views concerning patriotism.

Along with Bible Conference comes the first exposure to the cold. Lisa Jones shows one of the many ingenious ways to keep warm.

Community Services

Shenandoah students present week of prayer for New Market Elementary School, one of 10 weeks of prayer presented for Potomac Conference School (below). Mr. Jetter, Principal, presents a $50.00 honorarium for their efforts (right).

The Festival of Hymns and Anthems gave SVA students an opportunity to join with singers from seven other churches to praise God and to fellowship together.

Brenda Thibaudeau and Doug White pack two of the many bags of groceries that were collected to be distributed to those with less in the New Market area. The project was directed by Pam Koliadko, Community Services Secretary.

The new Life Care Nursing Home provides a regular ministry for students. The singing and visiting lifts the spirits of the young and the old alike.

Christmas Candlelight Concert

Christmas bells seem so appropriate as Joy Snedden, Robin Clark, Aimee Ellington, and the rest of Bell Choir ring "I Saw Three Ships."

David Gonzalez adds a special touch to Christmas Candlelight Concert by performing "The Carol of the Shepherds," accompanied by the Bell Choir.

Christmas is a time to reflect on the birth of Christ and the spirit of Christmas. Narrator, Pastor Terry Pooler, tells his childhood memory of Christmas.

To provide a final touch, the choirs line the church with candles and sing the traditional, "O Jesu So Sweet." Tracy Moon expresses the mood of the evening.

The Shenandoans perform a variety of Christmas carols tied together and entitled, "Christmas Day."

The nearly 60 member big choir fills the church as they sing "O Come, O Come Emmanuel."

The Heart of Activities

Activities are the highlight of campus life. They give the experiences that create lasting memories. Activities provide healthful entertainment and a release from the routine of daily school and work pressures. They are hosted by many different organizations and groups such as the Student Association, the Girls and Boys Club, and the Faculty. Often a good school is judged by the quality and content of the various activities in the school year.

S.A. Handshake

Jimmy Sines, Mike Knickerbocker, and Jimmy Gilmore express their enthusiasm for the new school year.

Handshake is the time for getting to know everybody and being swamped with what seems like thousands of names. Delwin Ayala shares the common fate of all new students at handshake. (far right)

Robbyn "Buffy" Barber warmly welcomes friends with open arms.

Handshake provides time for getting acquainted with new and old faces, illustrated by Scott Martell and Andre Scalzo.

Smiling pretty in hopes of a great school year are Toni Piper, Kelly Veney, and Dorothy Hall.

Faculty are also a part of handshake. Here Brandon Beck welcomes Carrie Marshall.

Fall Picnic

Karin Jerman and Robin Banks enjoy the traditional SA picnic lunch of hoagies. (top)

The junior girls combine their might in the Push-a-Car while the junior guys encourage them on.

Barry Wilhelm, Joel Honore, Randy Aybar, and Alonzo Starling give their all for the senior class in the rope pull.

Buck Handel goes for the challenge in the Chain-Link. (top)

Open House

Kim Witzel and Debbie Hewitt help serve the scrumptious meal to the faculty.

In line with the nineteenth century theme, third west portrays a southern ballroom.

Greg Crisso, Becky Brown, and Ricky Banks enjoy the common pleasures of food and friends found at every banquet.

Scott Dye struggles with a sticky situation as Dawn Reid smiles sweetly.

The California gold mines draw the attention of Nigel Hutchinson and Joanne Marshall.

Matt Lyter and Michelle Cromwell perform an outstanding duet of "Love Lifts Us Up Where We Belong."

Band Concert

Randi Levi shared her talents on the French Horn in "Rondo."

Brass leads in the famous number, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Experience is a good teacher. Paul Griffin, student director, leads the Concert Band.

Kari Beck pleases the crowd by playing "Galloping Comedians" on the Xylophone.

Food Fair

Fred Crone and Tracy Moon had a thriving business selling Nachos with cheese sauce.

Brenden Kootsey attempts to snag prospective ticket buyers to raise money for S.A.

One of the more exciting booths at the Food Fair was the baseball throw.

Elder Botimer uses Food Fair time to get to know the students and their parents.

Halloween Party

Randi Levi and Buck Handel were one of many couples with creative costumes.

Halloween Party is for costumes. Colleen Faulk, Marcelo Lopez, Kim Showers, and David Wooster dressed up as the classic characters of Hansel and Gretel, and Mickey and Minnie Mouse.

Carolyn Baker and Roger Williams won a first prize as Sprout and a box of frozen peas.

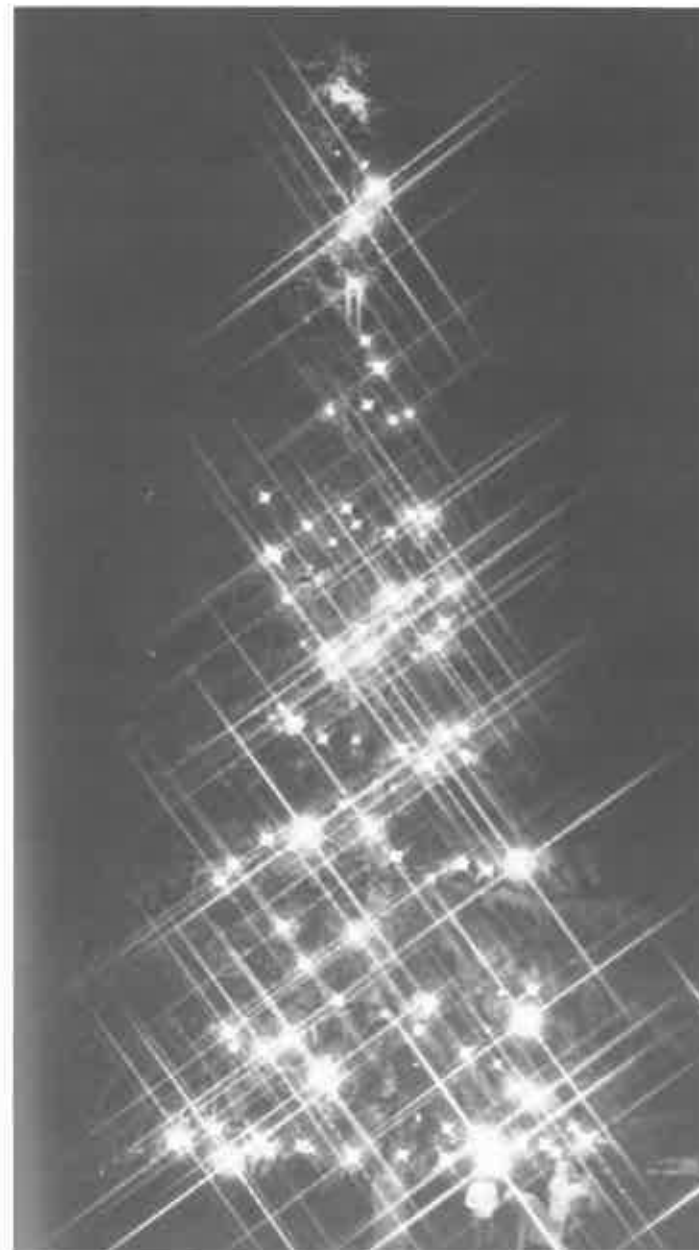

One of the activities at the Halloween party was to guess the number of candy corns. Lorrie Sizemore and David Koliadko try their luck.

S. A. Christmas Party

Santa Claus (JJ Henline) shows love to a small guest by giving him presents and a hug.

The tradition of a lighted Christmas tree on front campus gives the evening a holiday spirit.

"I Honestly Love You," as performed by Heidi Smith adds to the Christmas spirit of the evening.

The most special part of the Christmas Party is the annual student adoption of children. Kristina Varmer and Janelle Nerness share their Christmas with a special little girl.

Faculty Talent

Demonstrating the oratory techniques of the Greek orator Demosthenes, Elder Botimer tries to enunciate with a mouthful of marbles.

Pastor Brown writhes in mock agony as he attempts to fight off his infuriated monkey "Monty".

Faculty talent is exhibited in this unique rendition of "Oh, Baby Mine", by Mr. Strickland, Kari Beck, Janice Henline, and Coach Henline.

The bottle band has become a tradition at faculty talent programs. Doug Chancellor, Elder Botimer, and John Spano are accompanied by Miss Cross as they play "On Top of Old Smokey".

Perhaps the faculty's greatest talents are evident in their children. Here a group of faculty kids sing "Germs - My Invisible Dog".

Faculty often have hidden talents. Photography teacher Geoff Calkins surprises everyone as he and Mr. Beck play a clarinet duet.

In one of the evening's funniest skits, Pastor Brown takes students on a mock tour of "Mr. Roger's Neighborhood".

The Heart of Athletics

As an important part in the development of the whole person, a wide variety of athletics is offered. Sports provide an opportunity to put aside studies and tensions from nerve-racking classes, and give your all in support of the teams. From cardiovascular softball to volleyball and basketball, everyone is given the opportunity to participate. Who knows, the next Ralph Sampson, Roger Staubach, or Jim Palmer may be "sporting" his abilities among the crowd.

The Heart of Organizations

The Heart of the Organizations consists of the talents and qualities of the individuals involved. Our musical organizations have been highly praised and complimented. Most of the organizations, such as band, choir, and Olympians, travel throughout Virginia and to different parts of neighboring states performing their selections. Our organizations do more than just share their talents. They provide an opportunity to spread the love of Christ.

In Appreciation

Every junior who has taken history for the past 18 years has an image of Mr. Williams firmly embedded in his or her mind—the balding head, a hand tracing the course of the Columbia River, the Civil War, and stories of a Wisconsin farm boy. Four years ago Mr. Williams also took on the demanding job of librarian. In all his numerous duties, Mr. Williams has daily demonstrated Christian integrity, kindness, and genuine concern for students.

In Recognition

Mr. White has been at SVA for 29 years and has served SVA longer than any other person. He came to SVA in 1954 as a conference builder, and helped construct the gym, three faculty homes, and the old bindery, now the student center. He gradually made the transition from building, to maintenance. He can be seen doing various jobs to keep our campus in top shape. The majority of his time is spent in repairing the SVA buses, a thankless, never-ceasing job that requires the patience of a saint. Mr. White, for all the years of hard work and service we say, "Thanks."

The Heart of Student Association

The heart of Shenandoah lies within the people. The empty halls, dormitories, and classrooms hold no meaning when the students' laughter and tears are not prevailing. The campus is nothing more than buildings without the "family". If only the walls could talk, what beautiful memories could be relived: Experiencing Copie's class for the first time or mooing at Mrs. Liers. The people change but the memories live on in the heart of Shenandoah forever.

In Memoriam

Michael Brian Knickerbocker 1965-1984

Although times goes on and memories fade, within each of us a part of Mike will linger. Remembering his cheerfulness gives us the inspiration to carry on as we look forward to the time when we will see him again in heaven. This loss brings the realization that life is short and we should live to make others' lives a little happier, as Mike did.

One Last Look

The Heart Of The Valley

The last pages have been turned, the book is closing. These few pages could not possibly capture the unique combination of friendships, academics, and school life that make a year at SVA. Each person has his own memories. Shenandoah Valley Academy is more than just buildings and beautiful mountains. It is the first step to adulthood, it is the laughter and tears, it is the experiences held in the minds of the people. For the seniors this is the end, but for some just the beginning.

"This is not the End.
It is not even the Beginning of the End.
It is Rather the End
Of the Beginning."

by Winston Churchill
