Principal's Message

Spencer Hannah

On the walls of our house just north of New Market hang several paintings created by an incredible artist. This artist is clearly a favorite of our family, and we are always trying to obtain more of her artwork. I'm not sure what these paintings are worth on the open market, but to us they are invaluable. You see, the creator of these works of art is my wife's mother, and to us these paintings are part of her.

As you look through the pages of this yearbook you will discover many invaluable works of art. The pictures in this book are priceless because they are a part of you, your friends, and your experience at Shenandoah Valley Academy. You will be reminded of fun events, great experiences, and even difficult times. Some of the pictures will invoke memories of laughter while others will bring back thoughts of reflection and tears. The words will help you remember the names and the event, but the pictures will bring the memory home.

I encourage you to look deep and understand the entire picture. Consider that friends were there for more than simply experiencing activities, but to experience life and that is done to the fullest when we do it together. Realize that teachers and deans were there not to simply transmit data and information, but to empower you to grow and to become the unique, one and only you. Know that God was there through it all, experiencing it right along with you.

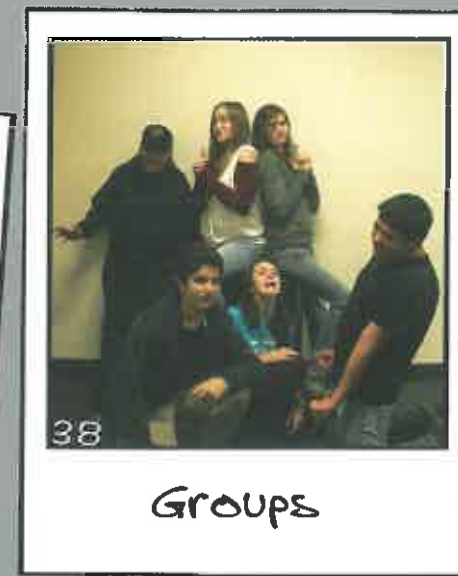

I wonder what that picture is worth?

White, Debbie

You are all probably wondering who this lady is and why the yearbook is dedicated to her. Well, let me tell you. She is the assistant business manager and works in the business office. She manages our financial needs, and, even though you don't realize it, she gives you your paycheck. She makes sure your parents get that piece of paper that says how much you made for that month that you worked so hard for. Not only does she manage payroll, but she pays the bills. Without her the school wouldn't have lights, water, or heat...well anything that you have to pay for.

I didn't know she even worked here until I was in her faculty family. I realized that she's a loving wife and dedicated mother to three boys who all graduated from SVA, as well as herself. If ever one of her "kids" is homesick, she always does something to make us feel better from bringing amazing chocolate to reading Christmas stories. She is there whenever you need her with a listening ear. She is one of the sweetest women I know, and I really wish all of you have the opportunity to meet her as I did.

Mrs. Dean said "She is the rock that holds us all together", and I agree. Without her dedication to this school, this school would be lost.

Always remember that the ones that work behind that scenes shouldn't always stay there.

Hannah aka Naomi :)

Psalm 39:7 NLT

Dear Son,
 Having you in our lives and watching as you grow has been the best gift God could ever give us. It feels like it was yesterday when you depended entirely on us for every step in your life, and now you have become a young man full of life who has given great satisfaction to our hearts. Your unconditional love and desire to grow for, and help those around you, has been an example for us.

We dearly remember every single time you encountered an obstacle and faced them with patience, maturity, and no matter how complicated they go you just solved it. Since you were a child, we could also remember your love towards God and all of His principles which you kept dear in your heart, as if it was an objective to keep them and fight for them.

With these few words, we want to demonstrate to you how proud you've made us, and that we admire each and every one of your characteristics. We are completely certain that you will become an excellent son of God as a pastor of His church, and in the future a great father and husband to your family.

We love you with our entire hearts and hope that you always keep us present in your life knowing that you can always count on us. Love, Mom & Dad

It seems just like yesterday that you were born, and now you are a wonderful young man graduating.

May you continue with the Lord and your studies.
 With Love,
 Mom

Corey Mi Hijo,
 We are so proud of you!! While this is just one of life's accomplishments to be proud of, it is worth all you have done to get here. Keep up the good work, smile that smile of yours, get serious when you need to, have fun when it's appropriate, and you will accomplish even more in this journey of life. Your Heavenly Father above has given you much and yet he has so much more to give to you. Keep Him ever before you, guiding you, and He will never fail you. Never, Never give up!! We will always support you and love you forever and always.
 Love, Mom and Dad.

David,
 We are truly happy for your graduation and to see what a nice young man you have become.

We love you much!

Dear

Mattie, You have brought us so much joy. From a very young age you were full of life and energy and had such an incredible love for God. We've had so much fun together. All the hours we spent reading, all the things we built with Legos and Wee Waffle blocks, the walks to the parks and that 6-mile walk around our neighborhood one Sabbath, and, of course, our long Friday night talks.

We are so proud of the young Christian man you've become. With much love, Mom
Dear Matthew,

After all these years you are still our gift from God, and we still thank Him for you. It's been a lot of fun watching you grow up into the fun-loving young man that you have become. Thanks for being willing to go on all those walks, bike rides, park excursions, and yes, even the scout rides and canoe outings.

Always be true to God and the good heart that you have. We believe in you. Love, Dad

Dear Daughter,

We always knew this day would arrive. You have accomplished so much and come so far! With Jesus, you can go even further! We love you so much. Thank you for being the thoughtful, wonderful young lady you are. Remember Phil. 4:13 and I Thess. 3:8

We love you,

A certain mom and dad
(and a certain brother, Donnie)

18 years is too short. . . the treasured memories, the images (cut curls, hamsters eaten, etc.) . . . You have been the joy of our family from the day you were born. You have grown into a man of integrity with a caring heart and a dry wit, and the talents to make a difference in this world. Stay close to Jesus; He loves you best and will help you through all that life brings. We can't wait to see your next 18 years--you have an incredible future. A part of us is with you wherever you go, and we will be near to cheer you on.

Love,

Your biggest fans --
Adam, Josh, Mom & Dad

Congratulations Vicky!

You are God's gift as a daughter, with a heart and future that knows no bounds. We couldn't be more proud of you today and forever.

Love, Mom, Dad & Samantha

Go conquer the world in the power and the strength of the Lord. Congratulations on your graduation. We love you.

Mom, Pierre, Jerome, Granny, Aunt Ruth, Genevieve & the Addisons.

Dear Jared & Jesse,

We are so proud of you and always have been. Since you were born, you have been full of life and adventure. What can we say; you both have always been mischievous. Thinking that all the jokes and pranks were just so funny, some were and some were not, maybe even a little scary. (for us that is). We remember the time when (at two years old) you hid from the babysitter. She called me crying because she had been searching forever. I told her to look in the little door of the hutch and there you were just laughing. The many smiles and laughter you have given us are more than we can count and we know there are more to come.

As you graduate from high school we are in awe as to how fast the years have flown by. It has been so wonderful being your parents and we are blessed to call you sons! Remember to place God first in your life and you will always be a success. Our prayer for you is that your goal here on earth will be to someday join your Lord in heaven and live for eternity. So our dear boys, live so that your light will shine for Him!

WE LOVE YOU OH SO VERY MUCH! Mom & Dad

Dear j-ro and Jess,

Wow! We can't believe you're graduating! You are the best brothers anyone could ask for. You've taught us a lot, like how to be tough and protect ourselves against our pesty big brothers; You're always there to listen and protect us against the meanies. Jackson and I will be waiting around for your trips home from college and I'll be taking a lot of road trips up there and picking your girlfriends! May God see you through the next four years (and more).

LOVE YOU SO MUCH: Jackson & Alex

Tyler,
 You are very special to us.
 It has been a joy watching you grow. We are proud of you and of your accomplishments.
 We love you.

Brume, you are a wonderful blessing and a special gift from above. You bring us, your family, and all around you so much joy. You are the most compassionate person I know. And you grow into adulthood, we can see the mighty man of God you are becoming. No words can describe the pride and gratitude that comes from having you as a son to love and cherish. Always keep God in your heart and spirit. May your future be filled with happiness, and may God continue to guide and protect you in all you do.

Mom

Zachary,

It seems that only yesterday you were just a little boy running around the house, pulling the dog's tail, and climbing anything that would hold still long enough for you to climb it. Now that little boy has grown up and in his place stands a tall, handsome, confident young man. The time has passed much too quickly. We have been so blessed to have been a part of your life, watching you grow, and we thank God every day for the gift that is you.
 It is our prayer that you always walk with God, trusting Him in all things, and following where He leads. Remember that He will never leave you or forsake you. Congratulations on your high school graduation, the completion of the first step in the journey that will be your future. We love you very, very much and remember that our love goes with you no matter where you are and that we will ALWAYS be there for you.

All our love,
 Dad, Mom, Ben and JD

To our girl...

Kristin Paige Dickerhoff

You have always filled our hearts and lives with your giggles and grins. We love the way your joy for life and your savior shines in all you do. We love you so much.

Yearbook

Have you ever looked at a picture and have all the memories of that day come back--All the people there, the way you felt, maybe even the smell or the weather. When I asked for this job at the beginning of my freshman year, I knew I wanted something like a scrapbook--to have the pictures speak louder than words, and that's what this yearbook is about.

Everyone knows the phrase, "A Picture Is Worth A Thousand Words," and that's the theme of this yearbook. When we all are old, we can look back at this yearbook and smile and remember all the great memories we had at SVA.

So now all the list making, hunting people down for pictures, deadlines, late afternoons and long nights are all over for me. It was a lot harder than I thought, but I put my heart and soul into this yearbook. So from now on, I hope when you look at a picture, whether it's in a yearbook or on Myspace think "what's that picture worth?"

To everyone: I'm sorry if you aren't in here enough or there's a terrible picture of you. I know there are mistakes; feel free to look for them and laugh (just don't tell me about them).

To the seniors: this yearbook is for you! I hope when you look back on all the pictures you will remember everything. Life here at SVA was hard at times and got really annoying, especially for us four yearers, but I hope every memory you had here at SVA will last forever. My wish is for this yearbook to help you remember the most important year of all--senior year.

To everyone that helped me complete this yearbook: you are all so awesome! I couldn't have done this without you. Mrs. Dodge--you were the best boss in the world! Cristian--whenever I didn't know how to do something you helped me, you knew exactly what I wanted. Layout Committee--your layouts are amazing! Mr. Brown, Meena, James, Madison: thanks for selling ads. You made the senior fold out section possible! To David Hittle, Kuriko Maeki, and all the other photographers: you guys helped with the most important part of this yearbook--the pictures.

Love,

Hannah

when you stare down your opponent and wait for the whistle to blow. I am the power serve that goes over the net that sends the crowd to cry.

THUNDER: I am the basics--bump, set, spike--and the bruised knees from endless digging. I am the adrenaline that keeps you going when your legs start to burn and arms want to drop. I am Volleyball I am the first pass that begins the war, the endless battle of out running and out passing the opponent. I am the worn out cleats that get better with age.

the mud and grass stains that cover your body. I am the power kicks, and the simple take outs that give you the freedom and dominance of the field. I am the motivation to sacrifice your body for just one goal, cause it could mean the game. I am Soccer I am the tip off, the very first play of a simple tip. I am the constant back and forth offense to defense, the constant fight. I am the clean steal, the perfect pass, the three pointer, the crowd pleaser. I am the aggression in you that makes you drive it all the way to the net. I am Basketball I am the timeless sport that brings America together and to the stands with their peanuts and cracker jacks. I am the first pitch, the curveball, the knuckleball, the fastball that will bring you to your knees. I am the line drive to the outfield and the bunt that takes them out. I am the drive inside out that urges you to steal base. I am

Baseball I am the fight, from the starting whistle to the ending whistle. I am 90% mental, 10% physical. I am the encouraging half time talk. I am what brings the diehard fans. I am the look on the coach's face whether it's one of approval or disappointment it's always a proud one. I am not made up of one person, but a whole team of fighters who will be here rain, snow, or shine. I am Sport.

I am Athlete.

Superman!

The curtains are blowing in the breeze, the leaves rustle on the trees, all is calm and all is still, the sun is setting on the hill.

It is Friday evening once again, I am talking to my friends, we're walking to the church again, we'll sing our songs and say our "Amens."

Just like every other week, we'll sit and watch the speaker speak, we'll pretend to worship, pretend to learn, then to our dorms, unchanged, return.

But something's different about this Sabbath's night, the stars are out, shining bright, it seems as though God is reaching out through the dark, to put His spirit in my heart.

All at once I feel very strange, everything begins to change, I go to vespers and praise the Lord, but this time, I mean every word, I begin to wonder what has happened to me, and then I realize, God has set me free.

We Painted our faces red and white,
 and headed out into the night,
 with expectations of prizes grand,
 we marched across campus hand in hand.
 We felt the wind blow through our hair, as we hung suspended 300ft in the air, scared to breathe or even look down, then without warning we plummeted to the ground.
 We surfaced for air in the murky lake, got out of the water and put on dry jeans, then climbed up a hill to eat franks and cake, and Mr. Brown told us to eat all our greens.
 We dressed up in our most outlandish attire:
 fairies, pirates, teletubbies,
 incarcerated clown,
 then we jumped around in a barn,
 and almost broke it down.
 This one fact can be agreed upon,
 by each and everyone,
 cool events and special times,
 is what made this year fun!
